OUR NEW YORK LETTER

New York, March 31st, 1866.

At this present writing, the holy days are in full [illegible] Christians as well as Jews—the former celebrating the Easter and the latter the Passover Festivals. Therefore should I consult my own feelings as regards the writing of this letter, the stomach which sails to-day would certainly not carry this epistle; but I am aware that readers of newspapers are but little inclined to accept excuses for delinquencies in the news columns of a daily paper, hence these few items.

BUSINESS

in this metropolis has not opened as expected this Spring. Manufacturers and importers had supplied themselves with unusually large stocks, in anticipation of an increased trade. Up to this time they have been sadly disappointed; consequently most all kinds of merchandise (wholesale) have declined considerably during the past fortnight, though the same has not been the case in the retail trade. The retailers are still keeping their prices up as when gold was rated at $2 40 in currency. This is no doubt owing to the enormous rents this class of merchants in New York have to pay to their landlords, while business is of a desultory character. Politics seems to be all the go. One hears almost nothing else but the President's policy and Congress ditto discussed pro and con. The Connecticut election, which comes off next week (the result of which the telegraph no doubt apprised you) absorbs considerable interest in this latitude, but politics is an article in which I do not deal, and your readers at this time have enough at home. I will leave the subject to your able Washington correspondent, who is better qualified and is in daily communication with the politicians of the nation.

MACHINERY FOR THE OREGON IRON SMELTING IRON WORKS.

Mr. H. W. Leonard, of your city, and a stockholder of the Oregon Iron Co., has at present in course of construction, machinery for a hot blast furnace, which it is his intention to ship via the Isthmus on the steamer leaving here on the first of May next. The company intends to commence the erection of their works this spring, and to complete them so as to commence the operation of smelting by next fall.

In connection with the foregoing it will perhaps be interesting to know that iron manufactured from (hematite) ores, the same as the Oregon ore, is of the best quality and is largely used for the manufactory of car wheels and railroad iron, and brings $75 per ton at present in this market, while anthracite iron only commands $50 per ton.

BLOODED PIGS FOR OREGON.

The Hon. H. W. Eddy, of Clackamas, who is a passenger by to-day's outgoing steamer, takes with him a number of "Chestershire White" pigs, which he intends to make presents of to his farm or friends, if they survive the dangers of the sea. The stock is no doubt the first of the kind imported into Oregon, and possesses the advantage of growing larger and fatter at an earlier age than any other species of hogs.

NOTORIOUS REBELS COMING TO GRIEF.

The guerrilla Quantrell, the burner of the town of Lawrence, Kansas, and who made himself notorious by his butcheries during the late rebellion, was arrested in this city a few days since and transferred to Washington, where he is kept in close custody. The following are the particulars of the arrest. Twenty-six indictments for murder are pending against the villain in the State of Kansas.

A few days ago Captain Williamson of the Fourteenth precinct, received information that the rebel General Quantrell, of Kansas notoriety, was temporarily stopping at a house on Second avenue, near the corner of Nineteenth street, and communicated the fact to General Superintendent Kennedy. A dispatch was sent to Washington asking if Quantrell was wanted there, to which an affirmative reply was immediately returned. Captain Williams was then directed to arrest the supposed guerrilla, who gave the name of Hamilton, and taking with him officers Pickett, Simonson and Liscomb, of his force, the Captain proceeded to the house in question, and, ringing the bell, asked if Mr. Hamilton was in. Being told that he was at dinner, Captain Williams told the servant that a gentleman at the door wished to see him. Hamilton was quietly taken in charge and escorted to the police headquarters, where he was locked up. The prisoner's baggage in the house was searched, and some important letters and other documents were brought to light. He was subsequently forwarded to Secretary Stanton.

THE REBEL GENERAL BRADLEY T. JOHNSON,

Who left Maryland at the commencement of the rebellion and returned during the invasion of that State at the head of a rebel brigade, was arrested on the 26th at Baltimore, by the United States Marshal, on a warrant issued on an indictment found for treason, by the grand jury in August last. Judge Giles held the prisoner to bail in the sum of ten thousand dollars.

THE WAY MONEY IS MADE ON DISTILLED SPIRITS.

A tax payer gives some interesting facts in one of the city papers. Extracts therefrom are as follows:

According to the estimates of the Revenue Commission the present annual consumption of distilled spirits in this country is from forty to eighty five millions of gallons. Up to the whole of this amount the people are actually paying to somebody a tax of two dollars per gallon, as proved by the market price of spirits, or from eighty-four to [illegible] millions of dollars per annum. * * * Where [illegible] of this large sum finds its way into the [illegible] During the last fiscal year, according to official returns—the rates of tax varying from [illegible] to two dollars a gallon—only sixteen millions were realized by the government—the large remainder, say sixty millions, going into the pockets of those unfaithful tax-payers, the illicit distiller and his associates in perjury, evasion and connivance. [illegible]

[illegible] can wonder at the high prices generally prevailing? Who can wonder that colossal fortunes are being so rapidly [illegible] by the few, while the many have to struggle hard for bare subsistence. Would any business firm [illegible] were not demented, continue unmodified a system capable of yielding results like these? Is it desirable to have a rate of tax so high, compared with the cost of production, that the illicit distiller, if he can successfully evade the payment of the tax on only one cask of spirits out of every [illegible] he manufactures, the Government [illegible] is confiscating the other eight (which, unfortunately, it does not), will in spite of the confiscation [illegible]

The revenue commissioners in their report to Congress urge a reduction from two dollars per gallon to one dollar tax on distilled spirits, asserting that with the annual increase (estimated at ten millions of gallons) making all allowances for certain illicit distillation, an average annual revenue of at least forty million dollars may be collected at this reduced rate of tax.

ARREST OF ONE OF THE SUPPOSED BOND ROBBERS.

Detectives Officers Rust and Dunshee, who are attached to the United States Marshal's office in this city, and S. V. Wood, who is connected with the secret service of the Treasury Department, arrested a few days since a person on the railway cars within ten miles of Boston, and upon searching his person were found several of the bonds lately stolen from Mr. Lord at Exchange Place, of which I gave you an account in my last. The individual arrested is not supposed to be the principal thief, but the prevailing opinion is that the police will now be able to capture all the offenders in a short time.

MONEY RECEIPTS FOR ADVERTISING IN THE NEW YORK DAILIES.

To show you the enormous amount of money annually paid for advertising in this city, I annex [illegible] a statement published by the Herald, [illegible] in the books of the Internal Revenue Department. WASHINGTON ITEMS.

The treaty with the chief and head men of the Lower Brule band of Dakota or Sioux Indians has just been officially promulgated. These Indians bind themselves not only to cease all hostilities against the persons and property of the whites, but to use their influence and the necessary physical force to prevent other bands of the Dakota or Sioux or other adjacent tribes from making hostile demonstrations against the government of the United States or its people. They also bind themselves to use their influence to promote peace among all classes and to withdraw from the overland routes. The government is to pay them six thousand dollars a year for twenty years and confer other benefits upon them.

Mr. Henderson of Oregon, on the 28th inst., presented the joint resolutions of the Legislature of Oregon, in regard to the Oregon war claims.

Mr. Nesmith (dem.) Oregon, called up a bill authorizing and requiring the Secretary of the Treasury to issue to Messrs. Goldsmith Brothers, of California and Oregon, $5,000 in seven thirty bonds in lieu of a like amount lost at sea.

Mr. Fessenden had no objection to the bill, but thought it ought to contain a clause providing that the Secretary of the Treasury shall first be satisfied of the actual loss of the bonds. He suggested to the chairman of the Committee on Claims if it would not be better to pass a general law covering such cases, many of which were now pending.

Mr. Clark, (rep.) of N. H., said the Committee on Claims took great care in examining those cases to obtain all the information possible before coming to any conclusion. They were careful not to report in favor of the reissue of bonds till they were satisfied of the loss. He moved to strike out the words "and required" from the bill. The Secretary of the Treasury would then be simply authorized to make good the loss, and would undoubtedly do so when satisfied that it was incurred as stated.

The amendment was agreed to, and the bill was then passed.

ERRATUM.

In my last I stated Judge Woods was appointed, vice Judge McBride, resigned. I ought to have said vice Judge Smith. Mc has not yet resigned.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

NEW YORK, March 31st, 1866.

At this present writing, the holy days are in full blast among Christians as well as Jews; the former celebrating the Easter and the latter the Passover festivals: therefore, should I consult my own feelings as regards the writing of this letter, the steamer which sails to-day would certainly not carry this epistle; but I am aware that readers of newspapers are but little inclined to accept excuses for delinquencies in the news columns of a daily paper, hence these few items.

BUSINESS

in this metropolis has not opened as expected this Spring. Manufacturers and importers had supplied themselves with unusually large stocks, in anticipation of an increased trade. Up to this time they have been sadly disappointed; consequently, most all kinds of merchandise (wholesale) have declined considerably during the past fortnight, though the same has not been the case in the retail trade. The retailers are still keeping their prices up as when gold was rated at $2 40 in currency. This is no doubt owing to the enormous rents this class of merchants in New York have to pay to their landlords, while business is of a desultory character. Politics seems to be "all the go." One hears almost nothing else but the President's policy and Congress ditto discussed pro and con. The Connecticut election, which comes off next week (the result of which the telegraph no doubt apprised you) absorbs considerable interest in this latitude, but politics is an article in which I do not deal, and your readers at this time have enough at home. I will leave the subject to your able Washington correspondent, who is better qualified and is in daily communication with the politicians of the nation.

MACHINERY FOR THE OREGON IRON SMELTING WORKS.

Mr. H. W. Leonard, of your city, and a stockholder of the Oregon Iron Co., has at present in course of construction, machinery for a hot blast furnace, which it is his intention to ship via the Isthmus on the steamer leaving here on the first of May next. The company intends to commence the erection of their works this spring, and to complete them so as to commence the operation of smelting by next fall.

In connection with the foregoing it will perhaps be interesting to know that iron manufactured from (hematite) ores, the same as the Oregon ore, is of the best quality and is largely used for the manufactory of car wheels and railroad iron, and brings $75 per ton at present in this market, while anthracite iron only commands $50 per ton.

BLOODED PIGS FOR OREGON.

The Hon. H. W. Eddy, of Clackamas, who is a passenger by to-day's outgoing steamer, takes with him a number of "Chestershire White" pigs, which he intends to make presents of to his farmer friends, if they survive the dangers of the sea. The stock is no doubt the first of the kind imported into Oregon, and possesses the advantage of growing larger and fatter at an earlier age than any other species of hogs.

NOTORIOUS REBELS COMING TO GRIEF.

The guerrilla Quantrell the burner of the town of Lawrence, Kansas, and who made himself notorious by his butcheries during the late rebellion, was arrested in this city a few days since and transferred to Washington, where he is kept in close custody. The following are the particulars of the arrest. Twenty-six indictments for murder are pending against the villain in the State of Kansas:

A few days ago Captain Williamson, of the Fourteenth precinct, received information that the rebel General Quantrell, of Kansas notoriety, was temporarily stopping at a house on Second Avenue near the corner of Nineteenth street, and communicated the fact to Superintendent Kennedy. A dispatch was sent to Washington, asking if Quantrell was wanted, [illegible] immediately [illegible] Captain Williamson was then directed to arrest the supposed guerrilla, who gave the name of H[illegible], and taking with him officers Pickett, Simonson and [illegible] of his force the Captain proceeded to the house in question, and ringing the bell, asked if Mr. Hamilton was in. Being told that he was at dinner, Captain Williamson told the servant that a gentleman at the door wished to see him. Hamilton was quietly taken in charge and escorted to the police headquarters, where he was locked up. The prisoner's baggage in the house was searched, and some important letters and other documents were brought to light and subsequently forwarded to Secretary Stanton.

THE REBEL GENERAL BRADLEY T. JOHNSON.

Who left Maryland at the commencement of the rebellion, and returned during the invasion of that State at the head of a rebel brigade, was arrested on the 28th at Baltimore, by the United States Marshal, on a warrant issued on an indictment found for treason, by the grand jury in August last. Judge Giles held the prisoner to bail in the sum of ten thousand dollars.

THE WAY MONEY IS MADE ON DISTILLED SPIRITS.

A tax payer gives some interesting facts in one of the city papers. Extracts therefrom are as follows:

According to the estimates of the Revenue Commissioner the present annual consumption of distilled spirits in this country is from forty-two to forty-five millions of gallons. On the whole of this amount the people are actually paying to somebody a tax of two dollars per gallon, as proved by the market price of spirits, or from eighty-four to ninety millions of dollars per annum. * * * What proportion of this large sum finds its way into the coffers of the Government? During the last fiscal year, according to official returns—the rates of tax varying from one and a half to two dollars a gallon—only sixteen millions were realized to the government—the large remainder, say sixty millions, going to line the pockets of those unofficial taxgatherers, the illicit distiller and his associates in perjury, evasion and concealment.

Who can wonder at the high prices generally prevailing? Who can wonder that colossal fortunes are being so rapidly amassed by the few, while the many have to struggle hard for bare subsistence? Would any business firm, whose managers were not demented, continue unmodified a system capable of yielding results like these? Is it desirable to have a rate of tax so high, compared with the cost of production, that the illicit distiller, if he can successfully evade the payment of the tax on only one cask of spirits out of nine which he manufactures, the Government uniformly confiscating the other eight (which, unfortunately, it does not do), will, in spite of the confiscation, be conducting a prosperous business?

The revenue commissioners, in their report to Congress, urge a reduction from two dollars per gallon to one dollar tax on distilled spirits, asserting that with the annual increase (estimated at ten millions of gallons) making all allowances for certain illicit distillation, an average annual revenue of at least forty million dollars may be collected at this reduced rate of tax.

ARREST OF ONE OF THE SUPPOSED BOND ROBBERS.

Detective officers Rose and Dunshee, who are attached to the United States Marshal's office in this city, and S. V. Wescott, who is connected with the secret service of the Treasury Department, arrested, a few days since, a person on the railway cars within ten miles of Boston, and upon searching his person, were found several of the bonds lately stolen from Mr. Lord, at Exchange Place—of which I gave you an account in my last. The individual arrested is not supposed to be the principal thief, but the prevailing opinion is that the police will now be able to capture all the offenders in a short time.

WASHINGTON ITEMS.

The treaty with the chief and head men of the lower Butte band of Dakota or Sioux Indians has just been officially promulgated. These Indians bind themselves not only to cease all hostilities against the persons and property of the whites, but to use their influence and the military physical force to prevent other bands of the Dakota or Sioux or other adjacent tribes from making hostile demonstrations against the government of the United States or its people. They also bind themselves to use their influence to promote peace among all classes, and to withdraw from the overland routes. The government is to pay them six thousand dollars a year for twenty years and some other benefits upon them.

Mr. Henderson, of Oregon, on the 23d inst., presented the joint resolutions of the Legislature of Oregon, in regard to the Oregon war claims.

Mr. Nesmith, (dem.) Oregon, called up a bill authorizing and requiring the Secretary of the Treasury to issue to Messrs. Goldsmith Brothers, of California and Oregon, $5,000 in seven-thirty bonds in lieu of a like amount lost at sea.

Mr. Fessenden had no objection to the bill, but thought it ought to contain a clause providing that the Secretary of the Treasury shall first be satisfied of the actual loss of the bonds. He suggested to the chairman of the Committee on Claims if it would not be better to pass a general law covering such cases, many of which were now pending.

Mr. Clark, (rep.) of N. H., said the Committee on Claims took great care in examining those cases to obtain all the information possible before coming to any conclusion. They were careful not to report in favor of the release of bonds till they were satisfied of the loss. He moved to strike out the words "and required" from the bill. The Secretary of the Treasury would then be simply authorized to make good the loss, and would undoubtedly do so when satisfied that it was incurred as stated.

The amendment was agreed to, and the bill was then passed.

ERRATUM.

In my last I stated Judge Woods was appointed, vice Judge McBride, resigned. I ought to have said vice Judge Smith; Mc. has not yet resigned.

"Negro Equality."

When the institution of slavery became extinct, the Democratic party lost about all it had of platform and political capital—the only vestige left, being the purely Democratic bugbear of "Negro Equality." This latter portion of the original platform has, however, been manipulated and expanded till it answers the Democratic idea of a political platform quite as well as the old one which was all "nigger." The world has furnished many remarkable instances of "the ruling passion strong in death," but the Democratic party has been permitted to become about the most remarkable example on record. Born of the slavery interest, nurtured by the profits of human bondage, hoisted to, and kept in, power by the slave trader and propagandist, and now dying of an over dose of "nigger" and self administered treason, the Democratic party will have no consolation not derived from recollections of the "nigger," and strongly objects to being buried in anything but a "nigger" shroud, a "nigger" coffin and a "nigger" grave. It will expire with "negro equality" last on its mortal tongue.

The Herald, of Monday suffered a column of agony over the idea of "negro equality." One cannot pick up any Democratic newspaper without finding those terrible words staring at him from all parts of the page. Whether anybody else will or not, the Democrats are determined to have negro equality—they see it coming—they know it to be inevitable—they swear with big round oaths that everybody has conspired to force it upon the country—and they will never sleep well till it comes. We are plunged in grief at the prospect. We do not see anything inviting in negro equality. We do not think the social status of the country would be at all improved by the whites intermingling with any of the inferior races. We doubt if anybody but Democrats, desire to see the idea of negro equality accomplished, and even they, if they may be believed, do not desire it for anybody but abolitionists.

But most persons will confess to being unable to see any danger even in the persistent attempt of the democrats to force it upon us. Negro equality in the sense which the Democracy talk of, has never obtained, in the North, where the people are mostly abolitionists, and we have the positive assurances of the Democrats who mostly live South, that they have set their faces against it from this time, "henceforth and forever." The mixture of the races in the Southern States, raises the natural inference that the Democrats have not heretofore considered negro equality so odious and dangerous as they now declare it. If the Democratic States, located on the sunny side of Mason and Dixon's line, will only perform all that their Northern partisans promise for them in the way of reformation, there can be very little danger of negro equality. And then that Democratic bugbear shall be entombed, the Democratic party will have lost all that remained of its political capital. At their present rate of speed, they seem determined to ride this, their last hobby to a speedy death.

WHAT IT MEANS.—Our city cotemporary talks about the "lofty patriotism" of O'Fay! The patriotism of a man must be exceeding "lofty" who can say, as O'Fay did in a speech four or five years ago:

> I believe in the right of secession as a divine right, and I demand that the South be allowed to go in peace.

It will be proper also to mention here that the editor who calls the above an evidence of "lofty patriotism" once wanted a "Western Confederacy," and in support of this proposition, said:

> For our part we consider the Union dissolved, never to be reunited.

From the above it will be understood what the Herald editor means by the "lofty patriotism which he attributes to O'Fay.

The Herald editor wants it understood that he is shedding tears copiously over those who were slain in the late civil war. If he is weeping for slain patriots, his case is probably similar to that of the person described by the solemn poet of the "Night Thoughts:"

He weeps in perfect justice to the dead,
As conscious all his love is in arrears.

If he is weeping for slain rebels (the more probable supposition) he no doubt does it partly from affection and partly from another cause best described by the same poet:

He weeps to share the fame of the deceased
So high in merit and to him so dear.

COMING BACK.—We notice the arrival by the Golden Gate at San Francisco, of Rufus Shoemaker, formerly the Democratic editor of the Grass Valley National. At the breaking out of the rebellion, thinking he could do the democracy greater service by "rallying around the Administration," he went east and entered the Confederate service and served four years with Van Dorn and Cheatham. Should he visit Oregon he would very soon find himself surrounded by a host of admiring democratic friends, ready to acknowledge his "meritorious services."

> But Democrats will not degrade themselves, nor permit others to degrade them.—Democratic paper.

The American people are of the opinion that Democrats could not, if they would, "degrade themselves," politically, to a lower depth of degradation than the most of them reached during the late rebellion. We sincerely hope for the good of society, that neither radicals, conservatives, whites, negroes, "nor any other man" will make an effort to degrade them below their present status.

UNION MEETING AT FOREST GROVE.—A large Union meeting was held at Forest Grove on Monday afternoon. Gov. Gibbs was present by invitation, and made an able and most effective speech. The Unionists of Washington county are working energetically, and will send greeting to the other counties on election by their usual majority of two hundred.

The Confederate Democrat as it conceives that some of its rebel readers have no right to vote in this loyal State publishes the laws, which relate to suffrage, and advise Confederates to study them to see whether they are entitled to the privilege of the elective franchise. But what is the use of this advice when Confederates can't read?

A FAILURE.—The Bulletin says it has authority for stating that the experiment by the California Steam Navigation Company of establishing steam communication with the Sandwich Islands, is about to prove a failure.

MINING NEWS FROM ROCKY BAR.

A letter from Rocky Bar states the following as most of mining matters in that vicinity:

Considerable excitement prevails here at present owing to the Wellington mill being attached at the suit of [illegible] & Co., of San Francisco, but it is understood that matters will soon be arranged to the satisfaction of the parties and the mill will resume operations. The Idaho mill still keeps knocking away and a golden stream flows steadily from thence into the pockets of the fortunate share holders. Mr. Harris' mill at Red Warrior is crushing rich rock. I paid the mill a visit a few days ago and saw gold in several pieces of quartz picked indiscriminately from the pile from which they were feeding. Every ledge that has been thoroughly tested in this camp, as yet, is rich—witness the Idaho Confederate Star, Altona, Ada Elmore, Wide West and there are numerous other ledges that prospect equally well on top—for instance the Pacific, Dunbar, Old Ophir, Webster and others too numerous to mention. There are a number of tunnels run for these ledges, but nine-tenths of them stop short of the ledge, the owners being unable for lack of means, to proceed further. While at Red Warrior I paid a visit (everybody does) to Mr. Rasey Illerstone's tunnel. It is the finest I have seen in the Territory. At its mouth is a carpenter and blacksmith shop where the materials are all prepared. It is now in some three hundred feet and must, in its progress, seek out some of the principal ledges in the district, in its passage through the mountain it will intersect a dozen well defined ledges that run at right angles with it, and if the proprietor's means equal his energy and perseverance, it is bound to be put through.

GOING TO BLACKFOOT.

The same authority says: The Blackfoot fever has carried off several of that class who are discontented anywhere from this place, and others talk of soon following them.

BOISE CHARTER ELECTION.

The municipal election for Boise City takes place May 7th. The Statesman contains a call for a meeting of citizens without regard to politics, to meet for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various offices.

Central American News.

We clip the following additional items from our San Francisco files by the Sierra Nevada:

Fires are alarmingly frequent in the Island of Taboga. Incendiaries are at work.

A report has obtained currency in Panama, although we do not pretend to vouch for the accuracy of the statement, that General Kilpatrick, United States Minister to Chile, demanded the surrender of the person of Mr. Williams, Captain of the Uncle Sam, for the purpose of having him sent to Washington to take his trial, for a breach of the neutrality laws.

The late eclipse of the moon was total on the Isthmus.

The officers of the U. S. sloop-of-war James Adger rendered efficient aid in rescuing the unfortunates of the steamer Esquimaux after the explosion at Aspinwall.

A number of British iron-clads are shortly to proceed from England to the Pacific station.

The Star has the following:

"We learn from a most reliable source that those bugbears of the Isthmus ex-President Calancha and Colonel Neira, are both in Bogota instead of being at the head of a large body of revolutionists outside the city of Panama, so that nervous people have no need to be any longer scared by the reports of their invading the city.

"It is at one time the dodge of keeping up political excitement by such false and injurious alarms should be played out, for the object of such tricks is becoming entirely too palpable even to the most casual observer."

We learn that the State authorities have applied to Mr. James S. Hermann for the amount of the bonds, $120,001, which he was forced to sign last February, in order to get the proper clearance for the Uncle Sam, and which we doubt not they will try to recover, as it would be a snug little sum for them to pocket. Mr. Hermann will probably defer the payment until he hears what higher authorities than those of the State think of the matter.

GUATEMALA.

Our dates from this Republic are to the 15th of March. President Cerna was continuing his visits to the interior departments of the State. Wherever he went he was received with the most lively demonstrations of affection and respect. The President's object in visiting the departments is with the view of pointing out the best means calculated to benefit the people, and good results are expected to follow therefrom.

HONDURAS.

The Legislature of this Republic has given its approbation to the treaty concluded with Nicaragua, which was alluded to in our last advices from this State. The official bulletin records the decree declaring the election of the Republic.

NICARAGUA.

The Congress of the Republic passed a decree on the 20th February. It contains only one article, which reads thus:

Art. unico.—The conduct of the Government in the affair relative to General Don Gerardo Barrios in which his Government declined any responsibility with that of Salvador, is approved.

State Items

Hauxhurst, who was in the Salem jail, on a commitment for the murder of Wm. Sanborn, effected his escape last Friday night. The Statesman says: "We have been informed that no bars, bolts, etc., were broken, and that the locks were found all right and locked in the morning." It is thought certain that he had assistance from the outside. Hauxhurst is a half breed and a desperate sort of character.

The Index states that Captain Montgomery launched his new boat at Umatilla on the 26th ult. The boat is called the Eclipse.

New election precincts have been established on Butter Creek and Willow Creek, Umatilla county.

The Index reports the weather at Umatilla up to the 27th ult., as cold, boisterous and windy.

The arrangement lately made by Postal Agent Brooks with the O. S. N. Co., secures the transmission of the mails from Dalles to Walla Walla five or six times a week—the mails being taken by every boat instead of tri weekly as heretofore.

Hillsboro is going to have its fire department as well as other larger and more pretentious places. A small but very efficient fire engine has been constructed there, and the citizens of Hillsboro will hereafter be prepared to guard against the devouring element.

The German citizens of the Dalles contemplate having a picnic and a shooting match on the 7th inst. at Oak Grove.

The farmers of Tualatin Plains are busily employed in plowing and sowing grain and the indications are that a large crop will be produced there this season.

MAY DAY.—There was not a man in Portland on Monday last but who was willing to protest that yesterday would have been a pleasant day—but how sadly would such predictions have fallen short of the mark. The weather was none the best for a picnic and [illegible], but the Fenian Council of this city having made such ample preparation for a May Day celebration, were not to be defeated by the lowering clouds of the morning, and accordingly on the arrival of the 14th Infantry Band from Vancouver, the company was mustered at [illegible], and marching to the armory of Co. B., (Washington Guards), and that of the Zouave Cadets, to which a detachment from each company, proceeded to the [illegible] House wharf for the purpose of embarking on board the steamer Fannie Troup for the picnic ground, six miles below the city, in the vicinity of [illegible] and St. Johns. Not less than [illegible] persons went on board the steamer, and as they passed down the river the sun brightened up a little, and the surroundings were made quite acceptably pleasant. Arriving at the grounds, however, the weather soon became "streaked," and alternate showers and sunshine detracted very materially from what would otherwise have been a grand gala day. The grounds selected were beautifully situated in one of nature's grassy meadows, and had been dotted here and there with tents and green arbors which were very inviting places. A large pavilion had been erected near the centre of the grounds, where dancing was enjoyed, despite the weather, to the music of the band. Target exercises, foot-ball, swinging, and various other sports made up the programme which was highly enjoyed, and at 6 o'clock P. M. the crowd left the grounds, returning to Portland by the same steamer which had taken them in the morning, arriving at 7 o'clock, weary, but much pleased with the enjoyments of the day. We are unable to present the list of prizes this morning, but will secure it for tomorrow.

GOT AN ELEPHANT.—One of the leading business houses of San Francisco has upon its hands an elephant, in the shape of thirty cases of nitro-glycerine. The Bulletin thus refers to the action of the owner: "It first stored it at the Potrero, near the powder-house, where he supposed it would be out of harm's way, and where no danger could arise from its presence. But Chief Burke notified him of his intention to pitch it into the bay, when he was compelled to obtain a temporary injunction to save his [illegible] oil. He then hired a small sloop of some Chinamen, into which he loaded the dangerous oil, and anchored the vessel and cargo some distance from the shore, and put in shallow water so that vessels could not collide with it, nor people easily reach it from shore. But the Chinamen are finding the bargain to-day urgent for its possession. The owners have now pretty definitely determined to [illegible] Goat Island, on a portion which is unfrequented and uninhabited, to which proposition the owners and occupants of the island have assented. So that it is now probable that it will be stored in such a position that no danger can result from its explosion, even if it should suddenly blow up. Still no vessel will take it, for probably no vessel will take it on board after the recent terrible accident, and it is difficult to see what can be done with the explosive stuffs. At all events, it is out of the city and away from human habitations, and that is a great comfort."

ST. JOHNS.—While on the excursion yesterday we paid the [illegible] of the Pacific Barrel Factory at St. Johns a [illegible] visit. The works were not in operation, but we could see evidences of the benefits of the establishment in the [illegible] well filled with "St. John's Extra" shingles [illegible]. Mr. H. D. Severance, Superintendent, informed us that those works were of sufficient capacity to [illegible] 5,000 to 6,000 shingles, and about 500 [illegible]. The building is quite a large one, about 60 by 32 feet, two stories high. The machinery is driven by an engine of 12 inches diameter of cylinder, with 24 inches stroke of piston, which is supplied with steam from a tubular boiler of 40 inches diameter 20 feet long. The town, now known as St. John's, was so named in honor of Mr. James Johns, who located there in the year 1847. The position is quite accessible by land or water, and there is a very fair belt of farming land to the east of the place. [illegible] year ago but two or three houses marked the site, [illegible] now there is an excellent wharf, some 20 houses, [illegible] to the barrel factory, and about ten enterprising families, and one store in the town, embracing a capital of at least $300,000. Thus towns are growing up rapidly about us, that we know but little of, except by [illegible].

DEPARTURES BY THE STEAMER.—The steamship leaving [illegible] Francisco last evening took away quite a number of our citizens, some of whom go East to remain for some [illegible]. Mayor Failing was among those on board for [illegible], also the resident agent of Wells, Fargo & Co. [illegible] Company, for some years resident here, Mr. W. [illegible] Reed, who has left us entirely to take charge of a [illegible] at San Francisco. Mr. H. D. Green and family, [illegible] Smith, Esq., A. D. Fitch, Esq., Mr. Thomas G. [illegible] and family, and Capt. T. G. Lord, are among [illegible] en route for the Eastern States. We wish them all [illegible] voyage, and speedy return to Oregon.

[illegible] OF THE SIERRA NEVADA.—The steamship [illegible], Capt. Connor, took her departure at 6 [illegible] last evening from this port for San Francisco with [illegible] cargo: 1,364 boxes fruit, 33 packages [illegible] merchandise, 36 cases eggs, 1 case hams, [illegible] packages skins, 9 bales wool, 1 bale furs—and [illegible] to the amount of $74,000 shipped by parties as [illegible]:

[illegible] Fargo & Co.	$50,000
[illegible] Bros	15,000
[illegible] Tilton	4,000
[illegible]	$74,000

[illegible] COURT HOUSE.—The County Commissioners [illegible] entered into a contract with Messrs. Goodnough & [illegible] to have the interior of the new Court House finished, [illegible] the desks, etc., are to be placed in their proper [illegible] as soon as possible. The building will be ready [illegible] in a few weeks.

[illegible]—We were shown, a few days [illegible] a very handsome case of surgeon's instruments, [illegible] prepared to order at the cabinet shop of Mr. J. [illegible] in this city, as a present by some friends to one [illegible] prominent medical men. The case, so far as the [illegible] is displayed, is equal to the best ones imported from Europe of that class, and we think it should [illegible] credit to our home mechanics.

THE [illegible] TUNE.—An organ-grinder has appeared [illegible] the streets of this city the past few days, turning out [illegible] "[illegible] old tune" with as much spirit and determination as one would labor if employed by the month to [illegible] music for the "amusement" of the denizens of a [illegible] thoroughfare.

[illegible] THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR A PLAN.—One thousand [illegible] will be paid by the Board of Harbor Commissioners of San Francisco, as a premium for the best plan for a [illegible] upon the water front of the city. Here is a fine [illegible] for architects.

[illegible] VANCOUVER MINES.—Mr. W. H. Farrar has just [illegible] working five hundred pounds more of the Vancouver quartz, the result of which was assayed by King, [illegible] & Co., and a good return is shown. Placer diggings have been found that pay well, in the vicinity of [illegible] ledges, which is about fifteen miles north of Vancouver.

[illegible] GOOD APPOINTMENT.—Frank Dalton, Esq., formerly of this city, we are pleased to learn has received the appointment of agent for Wells Fargo & Co., at Lewiston. [illegible] fill the bill for all that is gentlemanly and accommodating.

[illegible] SCHEDULE.—The short schedule time—six days [illegible] route to Portland—is now being attempted by [illegible] and Oregon Stage Companies. The first [illegible] the present season arrived under the short schedule [illegible] yesterday.

[illegible]—The steamer John H. Couch, Capt. Snow, [illegible], had not arrived at a late hour last night. [illegible] that she has in tow the schooners Pacific and [illegible] Crosby, from Nanaimo and Victoria, reported [illegible].

[illegible] LAND."—The canvassing agent for Oregon, [illegible] D. Castle, has met with excellent success in [illegible] copies of the above entitled specimen of art, by [illegible] Sawyer. He is now delivering the engraving [illegible] to subscribers.

COUNTY COURT.—The May term of the County Court [illegible], Judge Morgan presiding, will convene at the old Court House on Monday next.

TO CONTRACTORS.—The Oregon City Paper Manufacturing [illegible] are advertising for proposals for the erection of their building.

Walla Walla Items.

Dr. [illegible]berger, formerly army surgeon at Fort Walla Walla, is again employed at that post as "contract physician."

The Walla Walla Statesman says: "Pack animals in any number can be had in this market at from $30 to $60. These are the figures for good 'Cayuses'—inferior animals sell for less."

The District Court was still in session on the [illegible] ult. Benj. L. Sharpstein, F. W. Johnson, [illegible] Ellsworth, and P. B. Johnson, were admitted [illegible] as attorneys and counsellors at law. [illegible] Dunn, charged with perjury, was acquitted. [illegible] Allerton and Thos. Davis, sentenced to one year in the county jail for theft. The case of John Wilkins, indicted for murder in the second degree, was continued, and bail fixed at $1,000.

The Statesman says, we have added two new items of domestic production—Walla Walla Whisky and Brandy. For a year or two back the business of manufacturing liquors on a small scale has been carried on in this valley, and has paid the manufacturer liberally. Recently, Mr. I. T. [illegible], of the "Standard Mill," has gone into the business, and bringing to his aid machinery and the latest improvements, he is enabled to turn out liquors which competent judges pronounce to be of the best quality.

About five o'clock on Thursday afternoon, the [illegible], a terrible hail storm passed over Walla Walla. The hail continued to descend for ten or fifteen minutes, and in that space of time the earth was fairly covered with hail drops of the average size of a hazel nut.

The Statesman says of the annexation scheme: A private letter from Washington, of late date, says that "the bill introduced by Williams will undoubtedly pass. The Committee on Territories have reported in its favor, and so you Walla Wallans may calculate upon becoming a part and parcel of Oregon, and that, too, at an early day." The writer of the foregoing is an attache of the Senate, and as such has unusual facilities for obtaining information in relation to bills that may be pending before Congress.

TESTS OF NITRO GLYCERINE.—The following [illegible] from among the numerous examples and [illegible] power of the oil.

In England a trial was made and the judges say that a wrought-iron anvil, of about three hundred [illegible] blown to pieces with a charge of less than [illegible] three quarters of an inch [illegible] pounds, from forty to [illegible] scattered, and the surrounding [illegible]. It was computed that [illegible] the same effect would have been produced [illegible] similar charge.

At [illegible] became [illegible] with [illegible] pounds of nitro-glycerine [illegible] quintals' weight into three pieces, of which one piece weighing from sixty to seventy quintals went directly through the partition, back up with heavy timber, and lodged at a distance of thirty feet from the starting point. A borehole of four feet in depth and one inch in diameter charged with one pound of nitro-glycerine, caused [illegible] in the mountain of twenty feet in one direction, [illegible] that a borehole of seven feet depth and two inches diameter, charged with six pounds, made a fissure fifty feet in one direction; further, that [illegible] ten to eleven feet depth, with charges of [illegible] five pounds, detached from [illegible] of rock, besides the [illegible]. A borehole of twelve feet depth and two inches diameter was charged with five pounds of nitro-glycerine, which gave such an enormous power, that [illegible] cubic feet of granite equal to a weight of [illegible] quintals, was detached, besides causing fissures in the mountain of the length of several fathoms. On [illegible] 13th, 1865, experiments took place in the [illegible] mountains, in presence of about 4,000 spectators. [illegible] blasts were made in all. The holes were ten feet deep with one and a half inches diameter, and the [illegible] each borehole was of four and a half pounds of nitro-glycerine, which is equal to one hundred and fifty pounds of gunpowder. The effect was astounding. [illegible] report, the smaller pieces of rock and stone [illegible] and fell down the mountain [illegible] large and [illegible] rocks were [illegible] thrown up and which have to be [illegible].

2d. Two [illegible] barrels of eight [illegible] filled to an equal height, one with gunpowder, [illegible] down with [illegible], the other with blasting oil and a loose covering of sand. The barrel charged with blasting oil was introduced into a gas pipe of forged iron, three feet in length and two inches in diameter, and buried [illegible] soil, [illegible] to recover the fragments of iron. The barrel loaded with powder was only put into the earth, and both were fired at the same time. The barrel loaded with gunpowder burst into several pieces, of which the lower one remained in its place without being moved. [illegible] At the explosion of the barrel loaded with blasting oil, the ground raised several feet, the iron pipe was split in three places [illegible] length, and a cavity had been made in the ground of [illegible] feet depth and [illegible] two to three feet width. The pieces of the barrel [illegible] could not be found.

3d. A few drops of oil were poured on a [illegible] and by striking on it with a hammer, [illegible] explosion took place without igniting the [illegible] liquid, as would have been the case with [illegible].

4th. Some [illegible] and by lighting it [illegible], it was demonstrated that the oil burned slowly without exploding.

The blasting experiments made at [illegible] and [illegible] proved that its effect is incomparably more powerful than that of common powder, a power which nothing can resist. The explosion is caused by pressure without any smoke, and the flame is scarcely visible.

The oil is composed of six equivalents carbon, five equivalents hydrogen, three equivalents oxygen and three equivalents nitrogen. Practically it is a compound of 75 per cent. nitric acid and 25 per cent. glycerine.

INDIANS ON THE SALT LAKE ROUTE.—A reliable person just in from the Mojave river, on the Salt Lake route, reports the Indians to be very troublesome. They are continually annoying teams and travelers, and several persons have already been killed by them. The report this morning is that a gentleman taking through a large drove of stock to Montana, went on in advance of his train to find a location for camp, and on the train coming up, he was found shot and killed. The removal of the troops stationed at Camp Cady, has had a very bad effect, as the Indians are emboldened to commit depredations without fear of punishment, and unless a detachment of cavalry is immediately sent to that or some other point on the Mojave river, serious interruption to the travel on that road may be expected.—S. F. Flag.

THE REMARKABLE PROPERTIES OF BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES have been thoroughly tested since first introduced. The demand for them has steadily increased, and purely upon their own merits, they have found favor with those who, from Pulmonary, Bronchial or Asthmatic complaints, require them. For Coughs and Colds they are efficacious.

A Card.

There seems to be a disposition on the part of some of the medical men of this city to call things by their wrong names. They give DR. HENLEY no credit for removing the Cancer from my foot; in fact, they wish to make it appear that it was not a Cancer, but an ulcer, fever sore, or something else. Several of the best physicians on this coast all agreed long since that it was a Cancer, and one of them, Dr. Toland, has performed three surgical operations on my foot during the last five years, and it got worse. I asked him if he was certain it was a Cancer? He said "it was, beyond the shadow of a doubt," and finally he told me "there was no cure for it, and I must lose my foot;" but rather than do that I made up my mind to go East, when I met a Mr. Knight of this place. He told me of DR. HENLEY, and I came up. Dr. H. removed the Cancer in a short time, in a solid mass, without the use of the knife, loss of blood, caustic burning, or injuring the sound parts.

I make this statement in justice to Dr. H., who I consider a public benefactor, and I shall always remember him with the best feelings of my heart.

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.—The operation of this palatable remedy upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its mild and invigorating properties, and it is recommended to mothers, enfeebled by the cares and duties of maternity, as the safest and best tonic they can probably use. In all the cases of female life it will be found eminently useful, and elderly persons will derive much more benefit from it than from ordinary stimulants. S. T.—1860.—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supersede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of Impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

M. HOWARD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE,

313 Montgomery St., San Francisco.

THE ABOVE PREPARATION, WHICH HAS BEEN recently discovered and patented, is purely a Vegetable Extract.

The undersigned are fully aware of the many unsatisfactory and useless preparations for restoring hair that have been introduced to the public, and how little confidence is to be placed in any pretensions to restoring the hair to bald heads, but having tried MR. HOWARD'S PREPARATION, we are able to state that it not only prevents the hair from falling out, but absolutely reproduces it, and that we now have good suits of hair growing where we were entirely bald. Therefore, as a matter of justice to Mr. Howard, and of consolation to bald heads, we tender him this testimonial. Mr. H. keeps the article for sale in bottles with directions for its use, or applies it himself, as may be desired.

STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice.

MAY DAY.—There was not a man in Portland on Monday last but who was willing to predict that yesterday would have been a pleasant day—but how sadly would such predictions have fallen short of the mark. The weather was none the best for a picnic and like excursion, but the Fenian Guard of this city having made such ample preparation for a May-Day celebration, were not to be defeated by the lowering clouds of the morning, and accordingly on the arrival of the 14th Infantry Band from Vancouver, the company was mustered at the armory, and marching to the armory of Co. B., (Washington Guards), and that of the Zouave Cadets, receiving a detachment from each company, proceeded to the Ainsworth wharf for the purpose of embarking on board the steamer Fannie Troup for the picnic ground, a mile below the city, in the vicinity of Springville and St. Johns. Not less than 400 persons went on board the steamer, and as they passed down the river the sun brightened a little, and the surroundings were made quite pleasant. Arriving at the grounds, however, the weather soon became "streaked," and alternate showers and sunshine detracted very materially from what would otherwise have been a genial gala day. The grounds selected were beautifully situated in one of nature's grassy meadows, and had been dotted here and there with tents and green arbors which were very inviting places. A large pavilion had been erected near the centre of the grounds, where dancing was enjoyed, despite the weather, to the music of the band. Target exercises, foot-ball, swinging, and various other sports made up the programme, which was highly enjoyed, and at 6 o'clock P. M. the crowd left the grounds, returning to Portland by the same steamer which had taken them in the morning, arriving at 7 o'clock, weary, but much pleased with the enjoyments of the day. We are unable to present the list of prizes this morning, but will secure it for to-morrow.

[illegible] AN ELEPHANT.—One of the leading business houses of San Francisco has upon its hands an elephant, in the shape of thirty cases of nitro-glycerine. The Bulletin thus refers to the action of the owner: "He first stored it at the Potrero, near the powder-house, where he supposed it would be out of harm's way, and where no danger could arise from its presence. But Chief Burke notified him of his intention to pitch it into the bay, when he was compelled to obtain a temporary injunction to save his [illegible] oil. He then hired a small sloop of some Chinamen, into which he loaded the dangerous oil, and anchored the vessel and cargo some distance from the shore, and in shallow water so that vessels could not collide with it, [illegible] could reach it from shore. But the Chinamen [illegible] the bargain to-day urgent for its possession, [illegible] have now pretty definitely determined to [illegible] Goat Island, on a portion which is unfrequented [illegible] inhabited, to which proposition the owners and [illegible] the Island have assented, so that it is now [illegible] it will be stowed in such a position that no [illegible] result from its explosion, even if it should [illegible] up. Still he cannot ship it, for probably [illegible] will take it on board after the recent terrible [illegible], and it is difficult to see what can be done with [illegible] explosive stuff. At all events, it is out of the city [illegible] from human habitations, and that is a great [illegible]."

[illegible].—While on the excursion yesterday we paid [illegible] of the Pacific Barrel Factory at St. Johns a [illegible]. The works were not in operation, but we [illegible] evidence of the benefits of the establishment in [illegible] well filled with "St. John's Extra" shingles [illegible] Mr. B. O. Severance, Superintendent, in[illegible] these works were of sufficient capacity to [illegible] 5,000 to 6,000 shingles, and about 500 [illegible]. The building is quite a large one about 60 [illegible] 30 feet, two stories high. The machinery is driven by an engine of 12 inches diameter of cylinder, with 24-inch stroke of piston, which is supplied with steam from a tubular boiler of 40 inches diameter 20 feet long. The [illegible] known as St. John's, was so named in honor of Mr. James Johns, who located there in the year 1845. The place is quite accessible by land or water, and there is a very fair belt of farming land to the east of the place. A few years ago but two or three houses marked the site, [illegible] now there is an excellent wharf, some 20 houses, [illegible] to the barrel factory, and about ten or [illegible] families, and one store in the town, embracing a capital of at least $200,000. Thus towns are growing up around about us, that we know but little of, except by [illegible].

DEPARTURE BY THE STEAMER.—The steamship leaving [illegible] Francisco last evening took away quite a number [illegible] citizens, some of whom go East to remain for some [illegible]. Mayor Failing was among those on board for San [illegible], also the [illegible] agent of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s [illegible] Company, for some years resident here. [illegible] Reed, who has left us entirely to take charge of a [illegible] at San Francisco. Mr. H. D. Green and family, [illegible] Smith, Esq., A. D. Fitch, Esq., Mr. Thomas G. [illegible], and family, and Capt. T. G. Lord, are among [illegible] en route for the Eastern States. We wish them all [illegible] and speedy return to Oregon.

[illegible] OF THE SIERRA NEVADA.—The steamship [illegible], Capt. Connor, took her departure at 6 [illegible] evening from this port for San Francisco with [illegible] cargo: 1,304 boxes fruit, 39 packages merchandise, 86 cases eggs, 1 case hams, [illegible] skins, 6 bales wool, 1 bale furs—and [illegible] the amount of $74,000 shipped by parties as [illegible]:

[illegible] Fargo & Co	$50,000
[illegible]ith Bro	18,000
[illegible] Tilton	6,000
	$74,000

[illegible] COURT HOUSE.—The County Commissioners [illegible] entered into a contract with Messrs. Goodnough & [illegible] have the interior of the new Court House finished [illegible] the desks, etc., are to be placed in their proper [illegible] as soon as possible. The building will be ready [illegible] in a few weeks.

[illegible].—We were shown, a few days [illegible] a very handsome case of surgeon's instruments, [illegible] prepared to order at the cabinet shop of Mr. J. [illegible] in this city, as a present by some friends to one [illegible] prominent medical men. The case, so far as the [illegible] is displayed, is equal to the best taken in[illegible] from Europe of that class, and we think it should [illegible] credit to our home mechanics.

[illegible] SAME OLD TUNE.—An organ-grinder has appeared [illegible] streets of this city the past few days, turning out [illegible] same old tune" with as much spirit and determination [illegible] would labor if employed by the month to [illegible] music for the "amusement" of the denizens of a [illegible] thoroughfare.

[illegible] THOUSAND DOLLARS FOR A PLAN.—One thousand [illegible] will be paid by the Board of Harbor Commissioners [illegible] San Francisco, as a premium for the best plan for a [illegible] upon the water front of the city. Here is a fine [illegible] for architects.

THE VANCOUVER MINES.—Mr. W. H. Farrar has just [illegible] working five hundred pounds more of the Vancouver quartz, the result of which was assayed by King[illegible] & Co., and a good return is shown. Placer diggings have been found that pay well, in the vicinity of [illegible] ledges, which is about fifteen miles north of Vancouver.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.—Frank Dalton, Esq., formerly [illegible] this city, we are pleased to learn has received the appointment of agent for Wells, Fargo & Co., at Lewiston. [illegible] fill the bill for all that is gentlemanly and accommodating.

[illegible] SCHEDULE.—The short [illegible] six days [illegible] to Portland—is now being attempted by [illegible] and Oregon Stage Companies. The first [illegible] arrived under the short schedule yesterday.

[illegible].—The steamer John H. Couch, Capt. Snow, [illegible], had not arrived at a late hour last night. [illegible] that she has in tow the schooners Pacific [illegible], from Nehalem and Yaquina, [illegible].

[illegible].—The [illegible] agent for [illegible] B. D. Castle, has met with excellent [illegible] of the above entitled specimen of art, by [illegible] Sawyer. He is now delivering the engraving [illegible].

[illegible] May term of the County Court [illegible], Judge Marquam presiding, will convene [illegible] Court House on Monday next.

[illegible].—The Oregon City Paper Manufacturing [illegible] advertising for proposals for the erection of their building.

Walla Walla Items.

Dr. [illegible], formerly army surgeon at Fort Walla Walla, is again employed at that post as physician.

The Walla Walla Statesman says: "Pack animals in any number can be had in this market at from $40 to $60. These are the figures for good animals,—inferior animals sell for less."

The District Court was still in session on the [illegible]. Benj. L. Sharpstein, F. W. Johnson, [illegible]llsworth, and P. B. Johnson, were admitted [illegible] attorneys and counsellors at law. [illegible] Dunn, charged with perjury, was acquitted. [illegible] Allerton and Thos. Davis, sentenced to one [illegible] in the county jail for theft. The case of John Wilkins, indicted for murder in the second degree, was continued, and bail fixed at $4,000.

The Statesman says, we have added two new [illegible] of [illegible]. Its production—Walla Walla Whisky and Brandy. For a year or two back the business of manufacturing liquors on a small scale has been carried on in this valley, and has paid the manufacturer liberally. Recently, Mr. I. T. [illegible], of the "Standard Mill," has gone into the business, and bringing to his aid machinery and the latest improvements, he is enabled to turn out liquors which competent judges pronounce to be of the best quality.

About five o'clock on Thursday afternoon, the [illegible], a terrible hail storm passed over Walla Walla. The hail continued to descend for ten or fifteen minutes, and in that space of time the earth was fairly covered with hail drops of the average size of a hazel-nut.

The Statesman says of the annexation scheme: "A private letter from Washington, of late date, says that 'the bill introduced by Williams will undoubtedly pass. The Committee on Territories have reported in its favor, and so you Walla Wallans may calculate upon becoming a part and parcel of Oregon, and that, too, at an early day.'" The writer of the foregoing is an attache of the Senate, and as such has unusual facilities for obtaining information in relation to bills that may be [illegible] before Congress.

TESTS OF NITRO GLYCERINE.—The following are selected from among the numerous examples and tests of the power of the oil:

In England a trial was made and the judges say they saw a wrought-iron anvil, of about three hundred weight, blown to pieces with a charge of less than an ounce in a three-quarter of an inch hole; and with a charge of four pounds, from forty to fifty tons of rock were completely scattered, and the surrounding rock rent in all directions. It was computed that had the hole been sunk at a distance the same effect would have been produced with a much smaller charge.

At Paulin's copper mines in Sweden, a furnace having become choked up by a mass of iron, a bore hole of one inch diameter was made into the "Eisensaue," and filled with three cubic inches (equal to one-sixth part of a pound) of nitro-glycerine; and, to increase the action, a stick of wood was introduced at the side of the fuse. The explosion took place with a tremendous report, but without blasting; and a new charge was made, with four cubic inches of oil (equal to one-fifth of a pound), which split the "eisensaue," of three hundred quintals weight, into three pieces, of which one piece (weighing from sixty to seventy quintals) went directly through the partition, built up with heavy timber, and lodged at a distance of thirty feet from the starting point. A borehole of four feet in depth and one inch in diameter, charged with one pound of nitro-glycerine, caused a fissure in the mountain of twenty feet in one direction; that a borehole of seven feet depth and two inches diameter, charged with six pounds, made a fissure of fifty feet in one direction; further, that boreholes of ten to eleven feet depth, with charges of four to five pounds, detached from 1,250 to 1,500 cubic feet of rock, besides the fissures made in the mountain. A borehole of twelve feet depth and two inches diameter was charged with five pounds of nitro-glycerine, which gave such an enormous power, that from 5,400 to 6,480 cubic feet of granite equal to a weight of 7,347—8,816 quintals, was detached, besides causing fissures in the mountain of the length of several fathoms. On April 13th, 1865, experiments took place in the Tschingar mountains, in presence of about 5,000 spectators. Five blasts were made in all. The holes were ten feet deep, with one and a half inches diameter, and the charge of each borehole was of four and a half pounds of nitro-glycerine, which is equal to one hundred and fifty pounds of gunpowder. The effect was astounding. With a dull report, the smaller pieces of rock and stone were thrown seventy feet high, and fell down the mountain with a rattling noise, while large and massive rocks were detached, too heavy to be thrown up, and which have to be re-blasted for transportation. The pieces of rock thus dislocated were estimated at from thirty to forty cubic rods, (equal to 6,480—8640 cubic feet.)

2d. Two pistol barrels of eighteen inches in length were filled to an equal height, one with gunpowder, well rammed down with brickdust, the other with blasting oil and a loose covering of sand. The barrel charged with blasting oil was introduced into a gas pipe of forged iron, three feet in length and two inches in diameter, and buried in a firm clay soil, to be able to recover the fragments of iron. The barrel loaded with powder was only put into the earth, and both were fired at the same time. The barrel loaded with gunpowder burst into several pieces, of which the lower end remained in its place without being driven further in. At the explosion of the barrel loaded with blasting oil, the ground raised several feet, the iron pipe was split in three places to half its length, and a cavity had been made in the ground of four feet depth and from two to three feet width. The pieces of the buried pistol could not be found.

3d. A few drops of oil were poured on a small anvil, and by striking on it with a hammer, a strong but local explosion took place, without igniting the surrounding liquid, as would have been the case with gunpowder.

4th. Some blasting oil was poured on the same anvil, and by lighting it with a fuse, it was demonstrated that the oil burned slowly without exploding.

The blasting experiments made at Hal and Lossinne, proved that its effect is incomparably more powerful than that of common powder, a power which nothing can resist. The explosion is caused by pressure without any smoke, and the fluid is scarcely volatile.

The oil is composed of six equivalents carbon, five equivalents hydrogen, three equivalents oxygen, and three equivalents nitrogen. Practically it is a compound of 75 per cent. nitric acid and 25 per cent. glycerine.

INDIANS ON THE SALT LAKE ROUTE.—A reliable person just in from the Mojave river, on the Salt Lake route, reports the Indians to be very troublesome. They are continually annoying trains and travelers, and several persons have already been killed by them. The report this morning is, that a gentleman taking through a large drove of stock to Montana, went on in advance of his train to find a location for camp, and on the train coming up, he was found shot and killed. The removal of the troops stationed at Camp Cady, has had a very bad effect, as the Indians are emboldened to commit depredations without fear of punishment, and unless a detachment of cavalry is immediately sent to that or some other point on the Mojave river, serious interruption to the travel on that road may be expected.—S. F. Flag.

THE REMARKABLE PROPERTIES OF BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES have been thoroughly tested since first introduced. The demand for them has steadily increased, and purely upon their own merits, they have found favor with those who, from Pulmonary, Bronchial or Asthmatic complaints, require them. For Coughs and Colds they are efficacious.

A Card.

There seems to be a disposition on the part of some of the medical men of this city to call things by their wrong names. They give DR. HENLEY no credit for removing the Cancer from my instep, in fact, they wish to make it appear that it was not a Cancer, but an ulcer, fever sore, or something else. Several of the best physicians on this coast all agreed long since that it was a Cancer, and one of them, Dr. Toland, has performed three surgical operations on my foot during the last five years, and it got worse. I asked him if he was certain it was a Cancer? He said, "it was, beyond the shadow of a doubt," and finally he told me "there was no cure for it, and I must lose my foot." But rather than do that I made up my mind to go East, when I met a Mr. Knight of this place. He told me of DR. HENLEY, and I came up. Dr. H. removed the Cancer in a short time, in a solid mass, without the use of the knife, loss of blood, caustic burning, or injuring the sound parts.

I make this statement in justice to Dr. H., who I consider a public benefactor, and I shall always remember him with the best feelings of my heart.

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.—The operation of this palatable remedy upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties, and it is recommended to mothers, enfeebled by the cares and duties of maternity, as the safest and best tonic they can probably use. In all the crisis of female life it will be found eminently useful, and elderly persons will derive much more benefit from it than from ordinary stimulants. Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere, and HODGE & CALEF, 97, Front St.

They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.

They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

M. HOWARD'S HAIR RESTORATIVE;

315 Montgomery St., San Francisco.

THE ABOVE PREPARATION, WHICH HAS BEEN recently discovered and patented, is purely a Vegetable Extract.

The undersigned are fully aware of the many unsatisfactory and useless preparations for restoring hair that have been introduced to the public, and how little confidence is to be placed in any pretensions to restoring the hair to bald heads, but having tried MR. HOWARD'S PREPARATION, we are able to state that it not only prevents the hair from falling out, but absolutely reproduces it, and that we now have good suits of hair growing where we were entirely bald. Therefore, as a matter of justice to Mr. Howard, and of consolation to bald heads, we tender him this testimonial. Mr. H. keeps the article for sale in bottles with directions for its use, or applies it himself, as may be desired.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence, for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice.

The Great Worship

The harp at Nature's advent strung
Has never ceased to play;
The song the stars of morning sung
Has never died away.

And prayer is made, and praise is given,
By all things near and far;
The ocean looketh up to heaven,
And mirrors every star.

Its waves are kneeling on the strand,
As kneels the human knee,
Their white locks bowing to the sand,
The priesthood of the sea!

They pour their glittering treasures forth,
Their gifts of pearl they bring,
And all the listening hills of earth
Take up the song they sing.

The green earth sends her incense up
From many a mountain shrine;
From folded leaf and dewy cup
She pours her sacred wine.

The mists above the morning rills
Rise white as wings of prayer;
The altar-curtains of the hills
Are sunset's purple air.

The winds with hymns of praise are loud
Or low with sobs of pain;
The thunder organ of the cloud,
The dropping tears of rain.

With drooping head and branches crossed
The twilight forest grieves,
Or speaks with tongues of Pentecost
From all its sunlit leaves.

The blue sky is the temple's arch,
Its transept earth and air,
The music of its starry march,
The chorus of its prayer.

So nature keeps the reverent frame
With which her years began,
And all her signs and voices shame
The prayerless heart of man.

—John G. Whittier

Miss Preciosa's Principles.

In the most precise of country villages, in the primmest mansion ever built, dwelt the most precise maiden ever born, Miss Preciosa Lockwood. Even in that precise town, where laughter was reckoned one of the smaller sins, and the family in whose dwelling the lights were seen burning after ten o'clock were considered dissipated, there was a current joke regarding Lockwood Cottage, which giddy girls dubbed "the nunnery," and some even went so far as to call Miss Preciosa the "Lady Superior."

Certainly never convent halls closed themselves more grimly against mankind, gentle and simple, old and young. What in many an excellent spinster has been an affectation, was genuine with Preciosa.

Long ago, a pretty little cousin, who had been her confidante and companion, had become acquainted with a rascal with a handsome face and serpent's soul, and had eloped with him. They heard of her wearing velvet and diamonds, but no wedding ring, and driving about New Orleans in a handsome carriage, wondered at—and admired for her beauty, and shunned for her sin. And at last, after a long silence about her doings, a faded thing in rags came creeping at night to Miss Preciosa's cottage, begging for God's sake that she would let her in to die. Miss Preciosa did the reverse of what most women would do. She gave the sister's hand to the poor victim, nursed her until she died, and buried her decently, and thenceforward shut her spinster home to man. She was barely twenty-seven and far from plain, and she argued thus: something in a stove-pipe hat and boots has wrought this ill—all who wear those habiliments must be tabooed.

She kept her resolution. From the poor-house she selected a small servant maid, not yet old enough to think of "fellows." As cook she kept a hideous old female, too far advanced in years to think of them. The milk was brought by a German woman. The butcher's wife, by request, brought the joints. Even the grass in the garden, when it was too long, was cut by a woman, and if a man approached the gates, ancient Deborah, the cook, was sent forth to parley with him, and to obstruct his approach.

Having thus made things safe, Miss Preciosa went to New York, and brought home a dead sister's daughter, who had hitherto been immured in a boarding school, and the arrangements were complete.

Miss Lockwood took her niece to church; also to weekly meeting. They spent afternoons out with widow ladies with no grown-up sons, or with spinsters who resided in a solitary state. The elder lady [illegible] her blooming niece, and bold indeed would have been the man who dared to address her.

For her part, Miss Bella Bloom was an arch hypocrite. She had learned that at a boarding-school, where ingenuity is exhausted in deceiving the authorities, and doing always exactly what is most forbidden. Bella Bloom came to Lockwood Cottage perfectly competent to hood-wink her aunt.

She did it. Preciosa blessed her stars that her niece was well principled. She hated men. She wondered how any young lady could walk, talk, be sociable, and marry with them. And when she thought she lived in a house where they could not intrude, how thankful she was Aunt Preciosa could never guess.

And all the while Bella was chafing inwardly at the restraint, envying girls who had pleasant little flirtations at will, and keeping up a secret correspondence with one "Dear George," who sent letters, under cover, to the butcher's wife, who brought them in with the beef and mutton, and said, "Bless ye, and it will be natur, for all old maids, I was a [illegible] before Gleaver courted me."

Dear George was desperate. He could not live without seeing his Bella. He wrote bitter things [illegible]. He attended faithfully to [illegible] lessons in the garden of the [illegible], with Miss Glover standing sentry at the gates, on the [illegible] for a governess and [illegible] the first [illegible] he was coming to Plainfield [illegible] to see his Bella or die. Was he not twenty three, and she seventeen? Were they to waste their lives at a spinster's bidding? No!

Miss Preciosa, with her argus-eyed watchfulness, sat calmly, book by hour, two inches from the locked door of the closet which contained the gentleman's letters, and dined, from the meals that had aided in bringing them across the threshold, inculcating her principles into the minds of her niece and hand-maiden, the latter of whom grinned behind the lady's chair without reserve. Charity Pratt having grown to be sixteen, also had her secret. It was the apothecary's boy, who, in his own peculiar fashion, had expressed admiration at church by staring.

A few days after, Dr. Green, the bachelor minister, called at the cottage. Deborah went to him and snap, and was subdued by his eyes. She came in.

"M'," said she, "the clergyman is out there."

"Where?" gasped Preciosa.

"In the garden, wantin' you."

"Me?"

"Yes, Miss."

"You said, of course, I was out?"

"No, Miss, because everybody receives their pastor."

So the pastor was ushered in. He conversed of church affairs. Miss Preciosa answered by polite monosyllables. Bella smiled and stitched. Deborah sat in a hall chair on guard. Finally, the best specimen of that bad creature, man, was got out of the house safely, and the ladies looked at each other as those might who have been closeted with a polar bear and escaped unhurt.

"He's gone, aunty," said the hypocrite.

"Thank goodness!" said Preciosa. "I expected a fainting spell. Never let it happen again Deborah. Remember, I am always out or engaged."

"But he seems a nice well-spoken, good behaved kind of a gentleman," said the ancient Deborah.

"And a clergyman" [illegible]

"So he does," said Preciosa, "but appearances are deceitful. I once knew a gentleman—"

"Yes, Miss."

"A doctor of divinity, Bell—"

"Yes, aunt."

"Well?"

"Who kissed a young lady of his congregation in her father's garden."

"O! aunt!"

"He afterwards married her. I could never visit her, or like him."

"Bless you, no," said Deborah. "Now! the best thing you can do is to have a cup of strong green tea, and something nourishing to keep your spirits up. Gleaver's wife has just brought oysters in." (Private signal to Miss Bella.)

"Has she? Oh, I'll have oysters," cried Bella, and she ran to get Dear George's last.

It was a brief one, and in it George vowed to appear at the cottage when they least expected him, and demand his betrothed.

That evening at dusk, Miss Preciosa walked in the garden alone. She was thinking of a pair of romantic big eyes, of a soft voice and a softer hand which she had been surprised into allowing to shake hers.

"It's a pity men are so wicked," said she and sighed. Although she was near thirty she looked very pretty, as she walked in the moonlight, forgetting to put on airs and graces and stiffen herself. Her figure was very much like her niece, Bella—so much so that some one on the other side of the convent-like wall, with eyes upon a level with its upper stone, fancied it was that young lady. Under this belief he clambered up and stood on top and whispered—

"My dearest, look up and behold your dear George."

And Preciosa, lifting her eyes, beheld a man on the wall, flung up her hands in the air, and uttered a shriek like that of an enraged peacock.

The gentleman discovered his mistake and endeavored to retreat, stumbled and fell headlong [illegible] with pots and boxes, and lay there [illegible].

The shriek and the clatter aroused the house. Deborah, Bella and Charity Pratt rushed to the scene and found a gentleman in a sad plight, bloody and senseless, and Miss Preciosa, half dead with terror.

Bella recognized dear George, and fainted in good earnest. Preciosa, encouraged by numbers, addressed the prostrate youth:

"Get up you man, and go. Your wickedness has been, perhaps sufficiently punished. Do go."

"He can't, he's dead," said Deborah.

"Dead! what a sudden judgment. Are you sure he's dead?"

"Yes, Miss."

"Then take him into the house and send for the doctor."

They laid him on the bed and medical aid came. The poor fellow had a broken leg.

"He'll get well." "Oh, yes, but he could not be moved."

Miss Preciosa could not murder a fellow creature, and she acquiesced.

"He can't run off with the spoons until his leg is better," said Deborah.

"He isn't able to elope with any one," said Miss Preciosa, "and we should be gentle with the erring. Who shall we find to nurse him?"

"Old Todds is competent, Miss," said Deborah.

And old Todds came. He, of course, dwelt in the house. The doctor came every day. The apothecary's boy invaded the hall with medicine; and finally, when the young man came to his senses he desired to see his friend Dr. Green.

"Our clergyman his friend?" said Preciosa. "He must have been misled, then; surely, his general conduct must have been proper. May be this is the first time he looked over a wall to make love to a young lady. By all means send for Dr. Green."

Thus the nunnery was a nunnery no more. Two men under the roof. Three visiting it daily. What was this world coming to! Miss Preciosa dared not think. Bella was locked in her own room in the most decorous manner, while her aunt was in the house; but when she was absent Deborah and Charity sympathised, and she talked deliciously to dear George, lying on his back, with his handsome face so pale, and his spirits so low—poor fellow.

Troubles always come together. That evening, Miss Preciosa received information that legal affairs connected with her property, which was considerable, demanded her presence in New York, and left that establishment, which never before so much needed the Lady Superior. She returned after three days, toward evening, no one expecting her. "I shall give them a pleasant surprise," she said, and slipped in the kitchen way. There a candle burned, and in one chair sat two people—Charity Pratt and the druggist's boy. He had his arm about her waist.

Miss Preciosa grasped the door-frame and shook from head to foot. "I'll go to Deborah," she said. "She can speak to that misguided girl better than I." She faltered forward. Deborah was in the back area scouring tea-knives. Before her stood old Todds, the nurse. They were talking.

"Since my old woman died," said Todds, "I hain't seen nobody cooler like you—and the pies you does make."

"They ain't better than other folks'," said Deborah, grimly coquettish.

"They are," said Todds, and to Miss Preciosa's horror, he followed up the compliment by asking for a kiss.

Miss Preciosa struggled with hysterics, and fled parlorward. Alas! a murmur of sweet voices. She peeped in. Through the window swept the fragrance of honeysuckle. Moonlight mingled with that of the shaded lamp. Bella leaned over an easy chair in which reclined George Lovejoy. This time Preciosa was petrified.

"Dearest Bella."

"My own George."

"How happy we are."

"Oh, so happy."

"And when shall we be together again? You know I must go. Your aunt don't want me here, Bella. I must tell her. Why are you afraid of her?"

"She's so prim and good, dear soul," said Bella.

"Ah, you do not love me as I do you."

"George!"

"You don't. Would I let an aunt stand between us?"

"Oh, George, you know I have said that nothing could change me. Why, though you had staid lame, and had to walk on crutches all your life, it would have made no difference, though I fell in love with you for your walk, I don't deny it."

"Oh, oh, oh," from the doorway, checked this speech. Those last words had well nigh killed Miss Preciosa Lockwood. Hysterics supervened, and in their midst a gentleman was announced. The Rev. Peter Green.

"Show him in," said Preciosa, "I need counsel. Perhaps he may give it." And for the first time in her life she hailed the entrance of a man.

Mr. Lovejoy left the room as stealthily and as speedily as possible. Miss Bella followed him, Charity was in the pantry hiding her head, and Deborah returned to the cellar.

Alone the Lady Superior received the Rev. Peter Green. She faltered and blushed. "You are, I presume, already aware of the fact that I am much disturbed in mind," said she.

"Yes, madam, that is perceptible."

"You are my spiritual adviser, sir. To you, though a man, I turn for advice," and she shed a tear or two. "My own household has turned against me!" and she told him all that she had seen.

The Rev. Peter made big eyes at her and broke the truth gently.

"My dear madam, do you know that old Jonathan Todds and your faithful Deborah intend to unite their fortunes in the holy bonds of wedlock next Sabbath?"

"Oh what do I hear!"

"The truth madam. Can you bear more?"

"I hope so."

"Then it is time that you should be informed that Miss Bella Bloom and Mr. George Lovejoy have been engaged a year. They have corresponded regularly. It was to see her he climbed the garden wall and met with this accident. Don't give way, my dear madam—don't."

"You are very kind," said Preciosa. "But it's awful. What would you advise me to do?"

"I should say, allow Todds and Deborah to marry next Sunday."

"Yes, sir."

"And Charity and Zaddock on the day they have fixed. And I should sanction the betrothal of your niece and Mr. Lovejoy, and allow me to unite them at some appointed day before the altar."

"My own niece," said Miss Preciosa. "Oh, my own niece."

"Do you so seriously object to a wedding?" asked the pastor.

"No—no," said Preciosa, "It is this awful courting I dislike!"

"I agree with you," said the pastor. "I have resolved that when I marry I will come to the point at once. Miss Preciosa, the parsonage needs a mistress. I know of no lady I admire and esteem as I do you. Will you be my wife?"

Preciosa said nothing. Her cheeks burned, her lips drooped. He came a little closer. He made bigger eyes at her than ever. At last his lips approached and touched her cheek, and she said nothing.

In such a case, 'speech is silver, but silence is gold.'

Deborah was married Sunday, it being her fortieth birthday. Charity on Tuesday. Miss Bloom gave her hand to George Lovejoy in a month, and on the same day a brother clergyman united Preciosa and Dr. Green.

And the nunnery was broken up forever.

Colorado News.

The following mining news is from a late number of the Black Hawk Journal:

The Register says that the second piece of bullion taken off at the smelting works of James E. Lyon, weighs 1,850 ounces, 77 per cent. gold, worth $32,000; and that the average production of the Mammoth Mill, per week, for the past four weeks has been 300 ounces, something over $5,000. We might add that the Ophir Company is getting out, since the 1st of January, about 500 ounces a month; that the Narragansett Company is averaging about 600 ounces a month, the Gunnell Company about six hundred ounces a month; that the Black Hawk Company will do as well and better than that, it now having 60 stamps running; that the Philadelphia and Colorado Company will soon add another to this list; that the Smith and Parmelee Company is mining with great energy and only stopped its mill for something more perfect in the way of treating ores, that the [illegible] Company is running 50 stamps, and it never did run without paying largely, etc., etc. Our production will average, during the season, perhaps 100,000 ounces a week—at the rate of $3,000,000 a year. Added to this will be hundreds of tons of concentrated ore from the tailings at every mill, which ought to be worth an average of $10 a ton. This can be treated by the Keith process or smelted. 1866 will be the most prosperous year in the mines since 1860—it much seems now assured.

There is any amount of a variety of timber in Colorado.

A fine vein of cannel coal at least four feet thick, and of excellent quality, has been discovered between the Platte and Cherry Creek, ten miles from Denver.

FROM ARIZONA.—The Los Angeles News of April 20th, says:

Jack Irving was hanged at Arizona City a few days since by the citizens of that place, for killing a man named Wilson, late wagon master in the employ of the Government. Another named Joe Bowers, was forwarded to this place to be tried upon a charge of grand larceny committed in this county. A number of parties of doubtful character were given ten days in which to leave the place. Five companies of the 2d Infantry were relieved by two companies of the 14th regular Infantry; the five companies of 2d infantry are now awaiting transportation to Drum Barracks. Four companies of the 14th Infantry arrived at Fort Yuma on the 30th of March.

PARTICULARS OF THE ASPINWALL EXPLOSION.—The following additional particulars of the great Nitro Glycerine explosion at Aspinwall [illegible] from the Panama Star of April [illegible]:

The most awful part of the catastrophe was the dreadful loss of life and suffering attending it. Of the number of killed and missing it is impossible to give [illegible] but from present data the number may well be put down at fifty, and it is we fear, more likely to go over this number than under it. Of these [illegible] comprising the crew of the European [illegible] killed and twelve are missing. Two clerks belonging to the wharf—Mr. Swanton of the West India and [illegible] Steamship Company, and Mr. Cole [illegible] Railroad Company—were both instantly killed [illegible] natives or Jamaicans employed on the wharf and [illegible] freight house [illegible]. It is believed a small gang [illegible] had gone on board the unfortunate steamer [illegible] the fate of the others.

It will be several days before a correct estimate can be made of the loss. Many bodies were no doubt blown into the water and picked up by sharks while [illegible] still buried beneath the ruins of the freight house and wharf, or went down with the ill-fated ship. The scene in Aspinwall after the first explosion [illegible] was harrowing in the extreme. Whilst [illegible] ruins gave an air of desolation to the place, the mangled and lacerated bodies and pieces of bodies to be met with in every direction for a great distance around the ruin of the disaster were heartrending, and the suffering of the poor mortals crushed and bruised, in whom life was not extinct, was really dreadful.

At first the cause of the explosion was wrapt in mystery, and as no one was saved from the vessel [illegible] give any satisfactory explanation [illegible]. A boiler explosion was impossible, as [illegible] steam in the main boiler, and there was [illegible] use the engines, as the ship had been lying [illegible] over eighteen hours discharging cargo [illegible] most plausible, but there was none known [illegible] excepting a few pounds in the magazine [illegible] which could not possibly cause such an [illegible]. If any were on board it must be under a false bill of lading, as none appeared on the ship's manifest. Besides it seemed impossible that powder could explode in such immense quantities without creating a cloud of smoke and leaving its marks on everything around, whereas [illegible] a few minutes after the explosion no traces whatever were visible excepting the general ruin. It was [illegible] covered that some seventy cases of glonoine or [illegible]—one of the most powerful explosive agents known at the present day—were on board under an ordinary bill of lading. This at once cleared up the mystery. This compound is used for blasting purposes and was shipped from Liverpool for California. It is, we understand, a similar composition, if not the same [illegible] oil which exploded in Greenwich street, New York, a short time ago. It will be remembered [illegible] was accidentally dropped on the street, and immediately exploded, tearing down two or three large buildings and damaging many others.

The wounded, so far as found, have all been well cared for, and nothing has been left undone that could add to their comfort. Many of the poor fellows had to undergo severe surgical operations. Several only survived a few hours after reaching the hospital.

Fortunately, at the time of the accident, only four of the clerks connected with the freight department were at their posts. Two on the wharf were instantly killed as stated above, the other two, Mr. Burnham and Mr. Forman, were in the freight house, but, with wonderful presence of mind, on seeing the roof falling, one climbed over a car and sheltered himself in a window, whilst the other stepped into a doorway, and both were saved. The balance of the clerks were in the neighborhood of the ticket office, seeing the train start for Panama, which by some good Providence had been detained nearly half an hour behind time, and thus saved the lives of most of the young men connected with the freight offices. Had they been in the building most of them must have perished.

Immediately on the news of the accident being received in Panama, a special train was despatched, taking [illegible] medical aid. Dr. Wm E. Little United States Consul at this port, Dr. Maxwell, United States Fleet Surgeon and Dr. Ricker, Panama Railroad Company's Surgeon, at once volunteered their services and went over on the Express train, which reached Aspinwall in an hour and thirty-five minutes.

D. Kratochwill and Dr. Burkhardt of this city and Dr. Vallejo, of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's steamer Golden Age, went over in the afternoon and all of these gentlemen have been actively engaged in rendering medical aid to the wounded.

In the afternoon, the remains of twelve of the victims of this sad catastrophe were conveyed to the Mount Hope cemetery, near Aspinwall, and the remains of others, who died afterwards, were interred yesterday. The remains of the Commander of the European, Captain Cole, were also buried with Masonic honors yesterday.

Several of the officers of this [illegible] being members of the British Naval Reserve Corps, Commander McDiarmid of the United States steamer James Adger, wished to show proper respect to the remains of those who perished on the unfortunate ship, by accompanying the funeral procession, with his officers and men, for which purpose permission was asked by Consul Rice, from the authorities, to permit their landing, but this was only allowed as private citizens, the authorities refusing permission for them to carry their arms.

Great praise is due to all those who rendered such valuable services on this trying occasion, and especially to the conduct of the gallant officers of the Royal West India Packet Tamar, whose exertions to stop the spread of the disaster were invaluable.

The following is an official report of the lives lost so far as known last evening, from the explosion of the European:

Known to be killed on ship—Captain Cole; Mr. Glass, Chief Officer; Mr. Palmer, Second Officer; Dr. Burrows, Surgeon; Edward Davis, Carpenter; W. Pritchard, J. A. Young, W. Beresmond, sailors; Richard, cabin boy.

Also, missing from ship, twelve. Killed on shore, Mr. Calvo, Mr. Swainson and nineteen others.

Total killed and missing, forty-two. The number of missing from shore has not been definitely ascertained.

The same paper, of April 7th, has the following:

"We have received from Aspinwall the latest report of the killed, wounded and missing by the late sad accident. There have been buried, up to the present time, 36; missing from the ship 12; missing from the shore, 8; seriously wounded in hospital, of whom 5 will probably die, 17. Besides these, there are a number, at their own homes, slightly wounded. We may infer from the above that our first surmise of 60 being the number of unfortunate persons killed is about correct."

The following is extracted from the Mercantile Chronicle of April 6th:

The funeral of Capt. Cole took place yesterday afternoon, (the 4th inst.) with Masonic honors. Commander McDiarmid, in accordance with the application of Mr. Rice, United States Consul here, very graciously agreed to permit a detachment of marines from the James Adger to accompany the funeral procession of Capt. Cole and officers, but as the authorities refused permission to the marines to carry arms, they, of course, were not allowed to attend.

In the first telegram published in the Chronicle, it is stated that the explosion occurred when the European was rounding the wharf; this was not the case, as at the time of the fatal occurrence the ship was lying alongside the Railroad Company's wharf discharging cargo, having already got rid of the greater part of her lost freight.

The conduct of Captain Moir and officers of the Royal Mail Company's S. S. Tamar, in their daring achievement, is beyond all praise.

SOMETHING NEW AND NOVEL.—A PATENT APPLIED FOR.—Mr. Bender has invented an article by which he can take any number of Head Pictures on the same plate without the subject getting up from the chair; can get different positions of the face and all sizes of heads, can put a half dozen heads on the space of a half dollar; can put a whole family of heads on a common sized card, and will sell pictures cheaper than any other Gallery on this coast. Has the process for taking the new and beautiful style picture called the Porcelain or Sun Pearl, so much talked of in San Francisco, also has engaged a man from that place who has been making these pictures in San Francisco.

Mr. B. is now prepared to do as good work and in as great variety of style as any Gallery in Portland. Orders for full portrait size of photograph will be promptly attended to. [illegible] ap16dtpif

The Great Worship.

The harp at Nature's advent strung
Has never ceased to play;
The song the stars of morning sung
Has never died away.

And prayer is made and praise is given,
By all things near and far;
The ocean looketh up to heaven,
And mirrors every star.

Its waves are kneeling on the strand,
As kneels the human knee,
Their white locks bowing to the sand,
The priesthood of the sea!

They pour their glittering treasures forth,
Their gifts of pearl they bring,
And all the listening hills of earth
Take up the song they sing.

The green earth sends her incense up
From many a mountain shrine;
From folded leaf and dewy cup
She pours her sacred wine.

The mists above the morning rills
Rise white as wings of prayer;
The altar-curtains of the hills
Are sunset's purple air.

The winds with hymns of praise are loud,
Or low with sobs of pain;
The thunder organ of the cloud,
The dropping tears of rain.

With drooping head and branches crossed,
The twilight forest grieves,
Or speaks with tongues of pentecost
From all its sunlit leaves.

The blue sky is the temple's arch,
Its transept earth and air,
The music of its starry march,
The chorus of its prayer.

So nature keeps the reverent frame
With which her years began,
And all her signs and voices shame
The prayerless heart of man.

—John G. Whittier

Miss Preciosa's Principles.

In the most precise of country villages, in the primmest mansion ever built, dwelt the most precise maiden ever born. Miss Preciosa Lockwood. Even in that precise town, where laughter was reckoned one of the smaller sins, and the family in whose dwelling the lights were seen burning after ten o'clock were considered dissipated, there was a current joke regarding Lockwood Cottage, which giddy girls dubbed "the nunnery," and some even went so far as to call Miss Preciosa the "Lady Superior."

Certainly never convent halls closed themselves more grimly against mankind, gentle and simple, old and young. What in many an excellent spinster has been an affectation, was genuine with Preciosa.

Long ago, a pretty little cousin, who had been her confidante and companion, had become acquainted with a rascal with a handsome face and serpent's soul, and had eloped with him. They heard of her wearing velvet and diamonds, but no wedding ring, and driving about New Orleans in a handsome carriage, wondered at and admired for her beauty, and shunned for her sin. And at last, after a long silence about her doings, a faded thing in rags came creeping at night to Miss Preciosa's cottage, begging for God's sake that she would let her in to die. Miss Preciosa did the reverse of what most women would do. She gave the sister's hand to the poor victim, nursed her, until she died, and buried her decently, and thenceforward shut her spinster home to man. She was barely twenty-seven and far from plain, and she argued thus: something in a stove-pipe hat and boots has wrought this ill—all who wear those habiliments must be tabooed.

She kept her resolution. From the poor-house she selected a small servant-maid, not yet old enough to think of "fellows." As cook she kept a hideous old female, too far advanced in years to think of them. The milk was brought by a German woman. The butcher's wife, by request, brought the joints. Even the grass in the garden, when it was too long, was cut by a woman, and if a man approached the gates, ancient Deborah, the cook, was sent forth to parley with him, and to obstruct his approach.

Having thus made things safe, Miss Preciosa went to New York, and brought home a dead sister's daughter, who had hitherto been immured in a boarding-school, and the arrangements were complete.

Miss Lockwood took her niece to church; also to weekly meeting. They spent afternoons out with widow ladies with no grown-up sons, or with spinsters who resided in a solitary state.

The elder lady kept an argus eye upon her blooming niece, and bold indeed would have been the man who dared to address her.

For her part, Miss Bella Bloom was an arch hypocrite. She had learned that at a boarding-school, where ingenuity is exhausted in deceiving the authorities, and doing always exactly what is most forbidden. Bella Bloom came to Lockwood Cottage perfectly competent to hood-wink her aunt.

She did it. Preciosa blessed her stars that her niece was well principled. She hated men. She wondered how any young lady could walk, talk, be sociable, and marry with them. And when she thought she lived in a house where they could not intrude, how thankful she was Aunt Preciosa could never guess.

And all the while Bella was chafing inwardly at the restraint, envying girls who had pleasant little flirtations at will, and keeping up a secret correspondence with one "Dear George," who sent letters, under cover, to the butcher's wife, who brought them in with the beef and mutton, and said, "Bless ye, nater will be nater, for, all old maids, I was a gal once—before Cleaver courted me."

Dear George was desperate. He could not live without seeing his Bella. He wrote bitter things about spinster aunts. He alluded feelingly to those rendezvous in the garden of the seminary, with Miss Clover standing sentry at the gate, on the lookout for a governess and [illegible]. The first opportunity he was coming to Plainacres, and he intended to see his Bella or die. Was he not twenty-three, and she seventeen? Were they to waste their lives at a spinster's bidding? No!

Miss Preciosa, with her argus-eyed watchfulness, sat calmly, hour by hour, two inches from the locked door of the cabinet which contained the gentleman's letters, and aimed from the vaults that had aided in bringing them across the threshold, inculcating her principles into the minds of her niece and hand-maiden, the latter of whom grinned behind the lady's chair without reserve. Charity Pratt having grown to be sixteen, also had her secret. It was the apothecary's boy, who, in his own peculiar fashion had expressed admiration at church by staring.

A few days after, Dr. Green, the bachelor minister, called at the cottage. Deborah went to huff and snap, and was subdued by big eyes. She came in.

"Miss," said she, "the clergyman is out there."

"Where?" gasped Preciosa.

"In the garden, wantin' you."

"Me?"

"Yes, Miss."

"You said, of course, I was out?"

"No, Miss; because everybody receives their pastor."

So the pastor was ushered in. He conversed of church affairs. Miss Preciosa answered by polite monosyllables. Bella smiled and stitched. Deborah sat in a hall chair on guard. Finally, the best specimen of that bad creature, man, was got out of the house safely, and the ladies looked at each other as those might who have been closeted with a polar bear and escaped unhurt.

"He's gone, aunty," said the hypocrite.

"Thank goodness!" said Preciosa. "I expected a fainting spell. Never let it happen again, Deborah. Remember, I am always out or engaged."

"But he seems a nice, well-spoken, good behaved kind of a gentleman," said the ancient Deborah.

"And a clergyman."

"So he does," said Preciosa, "but appearances are deceitful. I once knew a gentleman—"

"Yes, Miss."

"A doctor of divinity, Bell—"

"Yes, aunt."

"Well?"

"Who kissed a young lady of his congregation in her father's garden."

"O aunt!"

"He afterwards married her. I could never visit her, or like him."

"Bless you, no," said Deborah. "Now the best thing you can do is to have a cup of strong green tea, and something nourishing to keep your spirits up. Cleaver's wife has just brought oysters in." (Private signal to Miss Bella.)

"Has she? Oh! I love oysters," cried Bella, and she ran to get Dear George's last.

It was a brief one, and in it George vowed to appear at the cottage when they least expected him, and demand his [illegible]

That evening at dusk, Miss Preciosa walked in the garden alone. She was thinking of a pair of romantic big eyes, of a soft voice and a white hand which she had been surprised into allowing to shake hers.

"It's a pity men are so wicked," said she and sighed. Although she was near thirty she looked very pretty, as she walked in the moonlight, forgetting to put on airs and graces and stiffen herself. Her figure was very much like her niece, Bella—so much so that some one on the other side of the convent-like wall with eyes upon a level with its upper stone, fancied it was that young lady. Under this belief he clambered up and stood on top and whispered—

"My dearest, look up and behold your dear George."

And Preciosa, lifting her eyes, beheld a man on the wall, flung up her hands in the air, and uttered a shriek like that of an enraged peacock.

The gentleman discovered his mistake and endeavored to retreat, stumbled and fell headlong into the flower-pots and boxes, and lay there [illegible] senseless.

The shriek and the clatter aroused the house. Deborah, Bella and Charity Pratt rushed to the scene and found a gentleman in a sad plight, bloody and senseless, and Miss Preciosa, half dead with terror.

Bella recognized dear George, and fainted in good earnest. Preciosa, encouraged by numbers, addressed the prostrate youth.

"Get up, young man, and go. Your wickedness has been perhaps, sufficiently punished. Do go."

"He can't, he's dead," said Deborah.

"Oh! what a sudden judgment. Are you sure he's dead?"

"Yes, Miss."

"Then take him into the house and send for the doctor."

They laid him on the bed and medical aid came. The poor fellow had a broken leg.

He'd get well. Oh, yes, but he could not be moved.

Miss Preciosa could not murder a fellow creature, and she acquiesced.

"He can't run off with the spoons until his leg is better," said Deborah.

"He isn't able to elope with any one," said Miss Preciosa, "and we should be gentle with the erring. Who shall we find to nurse him?"

"Old Todds is competent, Miss," said Deborah.

And old Todds came. He, of course, dwelt in the house. The doctor came every day. The apothecary's boy invaded the hall with medicine; and finally, when the young man came to his senses, he desired to see his friend Dr. Green.

"Our clergyman his friend?" said Preciosa. "He must have been misled, then—surely, his general conduct must have been proper. May be this is the first time he looked over a wall to make love to a young lady. By all means send for Dr. Green."

Thus the nunnery was a nunnery no more. Two men under the roof. Three visiting it daily. What was this world coming to! Miss Preciosa dared not think. Bella was locked in her own room in the most decorous manner, while her aunt was in the house; but when she was absent Deborah and Charity sympathized and she talked deliciously to dear George, lying on his back, with his handsome face so pale, and his spirits so low—poor fellow.

Troubles always come together. That evening, Miss Preciosa received information that legal affairs connected with her property, which was considerable, demanded her presence in New York, and left that establishment, which never before so much needed the Lady Superior. She returned after three days, toward evening, no one expecting her. "I shall give them a pleasant surprise," she said, and slipped in the kitchen way. There a candle burned, and on one chair sat two people—Charity Pratt and the druggist's boy. He had his arm about her waist.

Miss Preciosa grasped the door-frame and shook from head to foot. "I'll go to Deborah," she said: "She can speak to that misguided girl better than I." She faltered forward. Deborah was in the back area scouring tea-knives. Before her stood old Todds, the nurse. They were talking.

"Since my old woman died," said Todds, "I hain't seen nobody about like you—and the pies you does make."

"They ain't better than other folks'," said Deborah, grimly coquettish.

"They are," said Todds, and to Miss Preciosa's horror, he followed up the compliment by asking for a kiss.

Miss Preciosa struggled with hysterics, and fled parlorward. Alas! a murmur of sweet voices. She peeped in. Through the window swept the fragrance of honeysuckle. Moonlight mingled with that of the shaded lamp. Bella leaned over an easy chair in which reclined George Lovejoy. This time Preciosa was petrified.

"Dearest Bella."

"My own George."

"How happy we are."

"Oh, so happy."

"And when shall we be together again? You know I must go. Your aunt don't want me here, Bella. I must tell her. Why are you afraid of her?"

"She's so prim and good, dear soul," said Bella.

"Ah, you do not love me as I do you."

"George!"

"You don't. Would I let an aunt stand between us?"

"Oh, George, you know I have said that nothing could change me. Why, though you had stood lame, and had to walk on crutches all your life, it would have made no difference, though I fell in love with you for your walk, I don't deny it."

"Oh, oh, oh!" from the doorway, checked this speech. Those last words had well nigh killed Miss Preciosa Lockwood. Hysterics supervened, and in their midst a gentleman was announced. The Rev. Peter Green.

"Show him in," said Preciosa, "I need counsel. Perhaps he may give it." And for the first time in her life she hailed the entrance of a man.

Mr. Lovejoy left the room as stealthily and as speedily as possible. Miss Bella followed him, Charity was in the pantry hiding her head, and Deborah returned to the cellar.

Alone the Lady Superior received the Rev. Peter Green. She faltered and blushed. "You are, I presume, already aware of the fact that I am much disturbed in mind," said she.

"Yes, madam, that is perceptible."

"You are my spiritual adviser, sir. To you, though a man, I turn for advice;" and she shed a tear or two. "My own household has turned against me!" and she told him all that she had seen.

The Rev. Peter made big eyes at her and broke the truth gently.

"My dear madam, do you know that old Jonathan Todds and your faithful Deborah intend to unite their fortunes in the holy bonds of wedlock next Sabbath?"

"Oh what do I hear!"

"The truth madam. Can you bear more?"

"I hope so."

"Then it is time that you should be informed that Miss Bella Bloom and Mr. George Lovejoy have been engaged a year. They have corresponded regularly. It was to see her he climbed the garden wall and met with this accident. Don't give way, my dear madam—don't."

"You are very kind," said Preciosa. "But it's awful. What would you advise me to do?"

"I should say, allow Todds and Deborah to marry next Sunday."

"Yes, sir."

"And Charity and Zaddock on the day they have fixed. And I should sanction the betrothal of your niece and Mr. Lovejoy, and allow me to unite them at some appointed day before the altar."

"My own niece," said Miss Preciosa. "Oh, my own niece."

"Do you so seriously object to a wedding?" asked the pastor.

"No—no," said Preciosa, "It is this awful courting I dislike!"

"I agree with you," said the pastor; "I have resolved that when I marry I will come to the point at once. Miss Preciosa, the parsonage needs a mistress. I know of no lady I admire and esteem as I do you. Will you be my wife?"

Preciosa said nothing. Her cheeks burned, her lips drooped. He came a little closer. He made bigger eyes at her than ever. At last his lips approached and touched her cheek, and she said nothing.

In such a case, 'speech is silver, but silence is gold.'

Deborah was married Sunday, it being her fortieth birthday. Charity on Tuesday. Miss Bloom gave her hand to George Lovejoy in a month, and on the same day a brother clergyman, united Preciosa and Dr. Green.

And the nunnery was broken up forever.

The Register says that the second piece of bullion taken off at the smelting works of James E. Lyon, weighs 1,800 ounces, 37 per cent. gold, worth $12,000; and that the average production of the Mammoth Mill per week for the past four weeks has been 300 ounces, something over $5,000. We might add that the Ophir Company is getting out, since the 1st of January, about 500 ounces a month; that the Narragansett Company is averaging about 600 ounces a month; the Gunnell Company about six hundred ounces a month; that the Black Hawk Company will do as well and better than that, it now having 10 stamps running; that the Philadelphia and Colorado Companies will soon add another to this list, that the Smith and Parmelee Company is mining with great energy, and only stopped its mill for something more perfect in the way of treating ores, that the B[illegible] Company is running 60 stamps, and it never did run without paying largely, etc., etc. Our production will average, during the season, perhaps 5,000 ounces a week, at the rate of $3,100,000 a year. Added to this will be hundreds of tons of concentrated ore from the tailings at every mill, which ought to be worth an average of $100 a ton. This can be treated by the Keith process as smelted. 1866 will be the most prosperous year in the annals of [illegible]—that much seems now assured. There is [illegible] of labor in Colorado.

A fine vein [illegible] about four feet thick, and of excellent quality has been discovered between the Platte and Cherry Creek, ten miles from Denver.

FROM ARIZONA.—The Los Angeles News of April 20th, says:

Jack Ewing was hanged at Arizona City a few days since by the citizens of that place for killing a man named Wilson, late wagon master in the employ of the Government. Another named Joe Bowers, was forwarded to this place to be tried upon a charge of grand larceny committed in this county. A number of parties of doubtful character were given ten days in which to leave the place. Five companies of the 2d Infantry were relieved by two companies of the 14th regular infantry; the five companies of 2d Infantry are now awaiting transportation at Drum Barracks. Four companies of the 14th infantry arrived at Fort Yuma on the 20th of March.

PARTICULARS OF THE ASPINWALL CATASTROPHE.

The following additional particulars of the great Nitro Glycerine explosion at Aspinwall are copied from the Panama Star of April 9th:

The most awful part of the catastrophe was the fearful loss of life and suffering attending it. Of the exact number of killed and missing it is impossible to give an accurate estimate, but from present data the number may be safely put down at fifty, and as we fear, more likely to run over this number than under it. Of the forty [illegible] comprising the crew of the European [illegible] killed and twelve are missing. Two clerks employed on the wharf—Mr. Swanson, of the West India and Pacific Steamship Company, and Mr. Calvo, of the Panama Railroad Company—were both instantly killed, and [illegible] natives or Jamaicans employed on the wharf and in the freight house, are supposed to have been [illegible]. It is believed a small gang of [illegible] had gone on board the unfortunate steamer, have met the fate of the others.

It will be several days before a correct estimate can be made of the loss. Many bodies were no doubt thrown into the water and picked up by sharks, while [illegible] are still buried beneath the ruins of the freight house and wharf, or went down with the ill-fated ship. The scene in Aspinwall after the first explosion, cannot be described. It was harrowing in the extreme. [illegible] ruins gave an air of desolation to the place. The mangled and lacerated bodies or pieces of bodies to be met with in every direction for a great distance around, the cries of the disaster were heartrending, and the suffering of the poor mortals crushed and bruised, in whom life was not extinct, was really dreadful.

At first the cause of the explosion was wrapped in mystery, and as no one was saved from the ship [illegible] could give any satisfactory explanation, all was left to conjecture. A boiler explosion was impossible, [illegible] steam in the main boiler, and there was [illegible] use the engines, as the ship had then lain [illegible] over eighteen hours discharging cargo [illegible] most plausible, but there was none known [illegible] excepting a few pounds in the magazine [illegible] which could not possibly cause so much [illegible]. If any were on board it must be under a false bill of lading, as none appeared on the ship's manifest. Besides, it seemed impossible that powder could explode in such immense quantities without creating a cloud of smoke and leaving its marks on everything around, whereas in this case a few minutes after the explosion no traces whatever were visible excepting the general ruin. It was then discovered that some seventy cases of glonoin oil—nitroglycerine—one of the most powerful explosives known at the present day—were on board [illegible] of lading. This at once cleared up the mystery. This compound is used for blasting purposes, and was shipped from Liverpool for California. It is, we understand, of a similar composition, if not the same, as a box [illegible] of which exploded in Greenwich street, New York, a short time ago. It will be remembered [illegible] was accidentally dropped on the street and immediately exploded, tearing down two or three large buildings and damaging many others.

The wounded, so far as found, have all been well cared for, and nothing has been left undone that could add to their comfort. Many of the poor fellows had to undergo severe surgical operations. Several only survived a few hours after reaching the hospital.

Fortunately, at the time of the accident, only four of the clerks connected with the freight department were at their posts. Two on the wharf were instantly killed as stated above, the other two, Mr. Burnham and Mr. Borman, were in the freight house, but with wonderful presence of mind, on seeing the roof falling, one climbed over a car and sheltered himself in a window, whilst the other stepped into a doorway, and both were saved. The balance of the clerks were in the neighborhood of the ticket office, seeing the train start for Panama, which by some good Providence had been detained nearly half an hour behind time, and this saved the lives of most of the young men connected with the freight offices. Had they been in the building most of them must have perished.

Immediately on the news of the accident being received in Panama, a special train was dispatched, taking over medical aid. Dr. Wm. B. Little, United States Consul at this port, Dr. Maxwell, United States Fleet Surgeon, and Dr. Kluckner, Panama Railroad Company's Surgeon at once volunteered their services and went over on the Express train, which reached Aspinwall in an hour and thirty five minutes.

D. Kratochwil and Dr. Burchard of this city, and Dr. Vallejo, of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's steamer Golden Age went over in the afternoon, and all of these gentlemen have been actively engaged in rendering medical aid to the wounded.

In the afternoon, the remains of twelve of the victims of this sad catastrophe were conveyed to the Mount Hope cemetery, near Aspinwall, and the remains of others, who died afterwards, were interred yesterday. The remains of the Commander of the European, Captain Cole, were also buried with Masonic honors yesterday.

Several of the officers of this line being members of the British Naval Reserve Corps, Commander MacDiarmid of the United States steamer James Adger, wished to show proper respect to the remains of those who perished on the unfortunate ship, by accompanying the funeral procession, with his officers and men, for which purpose permission was asked by Consul Rice, from the authorities, to permit them landing, but this was only allowed as private citizens, the authorities refusing permission for them to carry their arms.

Great praise is due to all those who rendered such valuable services on this trying occasion, and especially to the conduct of the gallant officers of the Royal West India Packet Tamar, whose exertions to stop the spread of the disaster were invaluable.

The following is an official report of the lives lost so far as known last evening, from the explosion of the European:

Known to be killed on ship—Captain Cole, Mr. Glass, Chief Officer; Mr. Falson, Second Officer; Dr. Burrows, Surgeon; Edward Davis, Carpenter, W. Pritchard, J. A. Young, W. Baremond, sailors; Richard, cabin boy.

Also, missing from ship, twelve. Killed on shore, Mr. Calvo, Mr. Swanson and nineteen others.

Total killed and missing, forty-two. The number of missing from shore has not been definitely ascertained.

The same paper, of April 7th, has the following:

"We have received from Aspinwall the latest report of the killed, wounded and missing by the late sad accident. There have been buried, up to the present time, 20, missing from the ship 12; missing from the shore 8, seriously wounded in hospital, of whom 6 will probably die, 17. Besides these, there are a number at their own homes, slightly wounded. We may infer from the above that our first surmise of 50 being the number of unfortunate persons killed is about correct.

The following is extracted from the Mercantile Chronicle of April 6th:

The funeral of Capt. Cole took place yesterday afternoon, (the 4th inst.) with Masonic honors. Commander McDiarmid, in accordance with the application of Mr. Rice, United States Consul here, very graciously agreed to permit a detachment of marines from the James Adger to accompany the funeral procession of Capt. Cole and officers, but as the authorities refused permission to the marines to carry arms, they, of course, were not allowed to attend.

In the first telegram published in the Chronicle, it is stated that the explosion occurred when the European was rounding the wharf; this was not the case, at the time of the fatal occurrence the ship was lying alongside the Railroad Company's wharf discharging cargo, having already got rid of the greater part of her local freight.

The conduct of Captain Muir and officers of the Royal Mail Company's S. S. Tamar, in their daring achievement, is beyond all praise.

SOMETHING NEW AND NOVEL.—A PATENT APPLIED FOR.—Mr. HENDEE has invented an article by which he can take any number of Head Pictures on the same plate without the subject getting up from the chair; can get different positions of the face and all sizes of heads, can put a half dozen heads on the space of a half dollar; can put a whole family of heads on a common sized card, and will sell pictures cheaper than any other Gallery on this coast. Has the process for taking the new and beautiful style picture called the Porcelain or Sun Pearl, so much talked of in San Francisco, also has engaged a man from that place who has been making these pictures in San Francisco.

Mr. H. is now prepared to do as good work and in as great variety of style as any Gallery in Portland. Orders for full portrait size of photograph will be promptly attended to. ap30dlpf

LUNG BALSAM!
The Remedy for Curing
CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, Asthma, Croup,
Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.
ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.
Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

Experience is of forty years standing, and during that time has met with unparalleled success in the treatment of all those diseases generally known as Venereal or Chronic.

the benefit of the public, that

JACOB MAYER

Leased the building of me Feb. 17, time there was no such currency in vogue, and it was understood the terms were Cash. Since the date above stated I have received the depreciated currency regumaking less than two-fifths of the real amount said Mayer was to pay. He had secured the building at very advantageous rates, and even were he now to comply with his contract and pay in Coin, would be getting the best bargain in the city. I make this statement to show the public what kind of a man he must be to take such undue advantages of the times to convert a few dol-
